Red Columns Flee Through East Korea

Fears Held for 6 More On Ill-Fated Outing

Only Three Are Rescued in Long Island Sound; Five Are Known Dead; Coast Guard Makes Search of General Area

Groton, Conn., June 12 (AP)—Coast guard planes and surface craft fanned out today in a search for possible survivors from a pleasure fishing boat which sank with 14 aboard Sunday in storm-tossed Long Island Sound.

Only three had been rescued when the search teams renewed their hunt at Dawn. Five were known to be dead. There were grave fears that the other six met the same fate.

The bodies of three men and two women were recovered yesterday, four near Gardiner's Island, N. Y., and one at Plum Island.

There was only the faintest hope that any of the remaining six, among them an 11-year-old boy, would be found alive. But the coast guard vowed to maintain the search "until all possibilities of finding survivors are considered exhausted."

A coast guard patrol boat yesterday found Vincent Lombardo, a Meriden fuel dealer, clinging to the wreckage of the cabin of the Jack, a party fishing boat operating out of nearby Niantic.

Other coast guardsmen came across the Cindy, another pleasure fishing boat which became disabled in the midst of a rescue attempt and drifted helplessly away after taking aboard two survivors from the Jack. They were the Jack's captain, Robert Thornton, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Costas Lambrinides, 46, of Portland, Conn.

Four of the dead were identified positively as Roy Wilcox, 36, of Waterford, his wife, Eleanor Wilcox, 46; Malcolm Gurian, 27, of New Haven; and Miss Gloria Venturella, 24, of West Haven.

The first was tentatively identified as Lombardo's father, Antonio Lombardo, 57, of Meriden.

Listed as missing were: Richard Parnes, 11, of Niantic.

Barnie Schwartz, also of Niantic, a member of the Jack's crew and stepfather of the Parnes boy.

Thomas Lamos (Lambrinides) of Seacliff, N. Y., a brother of Costas Lambrinides.

Raymond Roper, of West Haven, Miss Venturella's fiance.

William Krevit, of New Haven.

Albrecht E. Hilzinger, of Meriden.

Wilson Refuses Meat Demands

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson today rejected demands of the cattle industry for price relief in four words—"the rollbacks are firm."

Wilson told a news conference there is no plan to relax either the present 10 per cent rollback on the price of live cattle or the scheduled rollbacks of 4½ per cent each in August and October.

He conceded that "we will be in a terrible mess" if cattle raisers cut off the flow of beef to market. He said he hoped they would not.

But when asked whether his Office of Defense Mobilization had any plans for rationing if the flow were curtailed, he replied with emphasis: "No."

Iran Tells U.S. Oil Will Be Sent Out

International Harmony Not in Jeopardy, Is Premier's Advice to President

Letter Is Sent

Lengthy Correspondence Forwarded to Capital From Tehran

Tehran, Iran, June 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh has assured President Truman Iran's plans to nationalize her oil industry will not jeopardize the world's oil supply, nor imperil international harmony.

The wrinkled little statesman who has been secluded in two rooms of his country's Parliament building sent these assurances in a lengthy letter transmitted to Washington yesterday through the U. S. Embassy.

The contents of Mossadegh's letter were disclosed as top officials of Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Company planned courtesy calls on government heads here prior to the opening of talks on the nationalization of Iran's oil industry operated by the company.

Mossadegh's letter was in reply to President Truman's recent appeal to Iran and Britain for moderation and reasonable negotiations on the explosive oil issue.

No Officials at Airport

No Iranian officials turned up at the airport for the arrival of two directors and four other officials of the British-owned oil company, whose vast holdings here Iran's Parliament has ordered nationalized.

With the rest of the billion-dollar oil company's delegation—including two other directors—due today, negotiations on the takeover may start tomorrow.

Iran's flag floated symbolically over the company's giant refinery near Abadan—the world's largest, after a peaceful ceremony yesterday at which Iranian directors named to operate the nationalized company were installed in a refinery office allotted them by the British management.

Steps Are Delayed

So far, the Iranians have appeared to be delaying steps to actually operate the oil properties until they see how talks with the London delegation will go.

Premier Mossadegh told President Truman "there will be no trespass against international law in the taking over from the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company." He said

Before Senators

Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, author of a controversial 1947 report on China and Korea, appears before the MacArthur inquiry group of the Senate in Washington, June 11. He is the eighth witness to be called by the group in its study of Asiatic policies.

7 Divisions Asked By Wedemeyer

MacArthur Turned Down His Bid After Defeat of Japan

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer testified today that he asked for seven American divisions to safeguard Manchuria from Russian penetration after Japan's defeat but was turned down by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Wedemeyer at that time was U. S. commander in China.

Testifying for the second day at the Senate inquiry into MacArthur's dismissal, Wedemeyer said he wanted to employ the American troops in Manchuria "to preclude unilateral action on the part of the Soviet in that area until the situation stabilized."

He said another purpose he had in mind was to secure the arms of the Japanese troops in Manchuria for the Chinese Nationalist forces and so keep them out of the hands of the Communists.

His request for the seven U. S. divisions was referred to MacArthur as the Far Eastern commander. Wedemeyer said MacArthur was uncertain about how the Japanese would react to the occupation of their homeland and declined to make the troops available.

Applies for Retirement

Now commander of the U. S. Sixth Army, with headquarters at San Francisco, Wedemeyer has applied for retirement. He is 55.

In his first day in the witness chair, he sharply criticized the Truman administration's Korean war policies and said he would favor withdrawing U. S. troops from Korea and breaking off diplomatic relations with Russia and her satellites.

When the general came back today before the inquiry panel—made up of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committee — Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.) tried to get information from him about wealthy Chi-

Practice Air Raid Test to Be Held At Noon, Saturday

Air Horns to Be Sounded at Central Station; Ulster Hose Will Take Part

A practice air raid warning test will be conducted in this city at noon on Saturday, June 16, it was ordered today by Sherwood E. Davis, city civilian defense director.

The warning will be sounded on air horns located at Central Fire Station on East O'Reilly street, and Cornell Fire Station on Abeel street. The Ulster Hose Company siren also will sound during the test.

Upon hearing the signal, all paid, volunteer and auxiliary firemen will report to their respective fire stations and await further orders, Davis announced. Civilians were advised to listen for instructions at the time of the signal on Radio Station WKNY.

Warning Signal

The public warning signal is a signal of three minutes' duration, consisting of either a fluctuating or warbling signal of varying pitch by air raid siren or a succession of intermittent blast by a horn or whistle.

The all clear signal, which will also be transmitted to the public, will consist of a series of three one-minute steady blasts by the air raid siren, horn or whistle, each blast to be separated from the previous blast by an interval of two minutes of silence.

During Saturday's test, scouts will be stationed in various sections of the city to test the effectiveness of the signal.

Council Couldn't Act

Because two-thirds of the membership of the Common Council were not present at a special meeting Monday night, no action could be taken on the proposed bond issue of $15,000 to finance sewer construction in the Singer housing development on West Chestnut street. Only eight aldermen were present with Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly. A two-thirds affirmative vote of the membership is required in order to approve a bond issue, according to Alderman-at-Large Kelly. No date has been set for another special meeting to consider the bond issue.

Sentence Is Given

New York, June 12 (AP)—A sentence of five to ten years in prison was imposed yesterday on a 34-year-old carpenter who beat a baby to death when it cried. The defendant, Eugene Lantwicki, had pleaded guilty to second-degree manslaughter in the death of seven-month-old Michael Vitollo. Sentence was imposed by Bronx County Judge James M. Barrett. A prosecutor told the judge that the child was born through the illicit relationship of Lantwicki and Mrs. Lillian Vitollo, both married.

Returning to Marines

Attorney John E. Gotelli, a first lieutenant in the marine corps reserve, will close his law office to return to active duty on June 19 at Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, Calif.

Stout Lines Defend Sino Pullback

Reports Tell That Foe Is Building Forces in Section 30 Miles From Seoul

March Is Long

Reds Have 50-Mile Line to Traverse on East Front

Tokyo, June 12 (AP)—Three long columns of Reds fled through east Korea's mountain's today to escape being trapped by allied tanks rumbling through their fallen "iron triangle."

Stout new defense lines protected the Reds' retreat from the east-central front.

United Nations troops mopped up Reds in hills around captured Chorwon and Kumhwa. The towns formed the southern anchors of the Pyonggang valley iron triangle buildup area. Chinese headed for the hills on each side of the valley.

American tanks striking up roads from the triangle to the east coast would cut squarely across the Red escape route from the eastern front.

While Reds were pulling back from the fighting fronts, unverified reports cropped up that they were building up new forces only 30 miles northwest of Seoul. The buildup was reported in the Kaesong-Korangpo area.

This is near the foot of the allied western flank. This flank drags southwest of the main front. It reaches from Chorwon to a point 35 miles to the southwest, running roughly along the banks of the Imjin river.

Pushes Northward

While the UN counterattack has pushed northward along a narrowing front, patrols have probed this long flank daily for signs of Red strength.

The jagged northern front has been cut to about 75 miles. At the height of the Communist spring offensive it was 125 miles long.

(Precisely what is happening on the front is hidden by tightening military censorship.

(Few front line dispatches have been permitted through in recent days. Those few are heavily censored.)

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said only scattered groups of Chinese soldiers offered delaying defense of the former Red buildup area around Chorwon and Kumhwa.

Communists were reported anchoring their new defense line on Kumsong. The highway town guards the escape route for North Koreans on the eastern front.

Have Long March

Reds have a 50-mile march over mountain trails and roads from the Inje-Yanggu area of the eastern front to a highway junction above Kumsong. The highway runs from Kumhwa, through Kumsong to the East coast highway that lies under the guns of blockading U.N. warships.

When North Koreans cross this route, they would still have to cross the Pyonggang valley, running northward from the iron triangle to Wonsan on the east coast. Beyond lies the next expected main Red defense line—Wonsan to Pyongyang, Red capital in western Korea.

AP Correspondent George MacArthur reported the Allies advanced warily through the mountainous east. They combed ridges which north Koreans defended bitterly for days and then abruptly abandoned.

Advancing U. N. forces expected to bump at any time into new defenses guarding the escape route. In some places they hit the new defenses solidly.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said the eastern advance was "limited by adverse weather, difficult terrain and determined enemy resistance."

Showers and low hanging clouds failed to ground U.N. war planes. They flew 750 sorties Monday.

Three American planes were shot down over Red territory—an F-80 Shooting Star jet and two F-51 Mustangs. One pilot was rescued.

Fighter bombers hit Communist supply routes, air fields, storage routes and buildings. Cargo planes flew 1,100 tons of ammunition and fuel to front line U.N. troops, landing on muddy air fields only 15 miles behind the front.

Air Force Rules Icing Was Reason Eight Jets Crashed

No Indication of Sabotage Revealed in Probe by Groups at Capital

Washington, June 12 (AP)—The air force today ruled out sabotage and said icing of engine inlet screens caused the crash of eight jet fighters over Indiana last Friday.

The investigation conducted by the air force, the FBI, and plane manufacturers has revealed "no indication of sabotage," the air force said.

The eight planes were among 34 F-84 Thunderjets flying from Austin, Tex., to Selfridge Field, Mich. The eight crashed a few minutes after taking off after a refueling stop at Wright-Patterson Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Three pilots were killed.

The air force said in a formal statement that all of the 71 planes involved in the training flight are being inspected "on a round-the-clock" basis, to determine whether they showed any effects from flying through the area where the fatal accidents occurred.

Some 14 of the planes which arrived safely at Selfridge Field have already been checked, the air force said, but have revealed "no signs of visible damage and are ready for flight."

The preliminary investigation showed that the icing was "due to a peculiar set of localized atmospheric conditions," the air force statement asserted.

Two Fall From Window

Syracuse, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Doreen Bukowski, 4 fell from a second-floor window yesterday for the second time. She was accompanied by her two-year-old brother, Robert, on the latest trip. The children were taken to a hospital, where a spokesman said they apparently suffered only bruises in the 30-foot fall.

Smith, Democrat, Resigns In Council; Rodden Named

New Appointee Will Serve Remainder of Year; Vote Now 9-4

The resignation of Alderman J. Richard Smith, Democrat, of the Seventh Ward, was announced today by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk. To fill Smith's unexpired term, the mayor has named Joseph Rodden of 107 Hudson street, a Republican committeeman.

Smith's resignation came, he said in a letter to the mayor and the Common Council, because he has accepted a position in another city.

Rodden, the new appointee, will serve until December 31, 1951. An employe of Island Dock, Inc., he is president of Local 720, Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders Union. He is a member of St. Peter's Church in this city. Organizations to which he belongs include the Kingston Power Boat Association and Kingston Lodge 550, B.P.O. Elks. He has been active in the Republican Party for a number of years.

Nine to Four Edge

The replacement of Smith by a Republican alderman gives the Republicans a theoretical nine to four edge over Democrats in the Council. In practice, however, the Republican majority will be nine to three, as one of the Democratic members, Charles J. Cole of the Thirteenth Ward, will leave this week for active duty with the U. S. Navy.

Smith, prior to his resignation, was absent from five consecutive regular meetings of the Council, due to pressure of business.

Alderman Smith's letter of resignation, dated June 11, stated, in part:

"I have accepted a position in another city and since I can no longer dedicate the time and attention required by my position as Alderman of the Seventh Ward, I feel that in the interest of everyone concerned it is my duty to resign said position." He also expressed "grateful thanks to the people of the Seventh Ward and the city of Kingston for their kind cooperation and to the members of the Common Council for a pleasant association."

Smith has been employed by the Forst Packing Company of this city. Although he could not be reached this morning for a statement on his new position, it was understood that he had passed a State Civil Service examination as meat inspector and that that job will take him to another city.

Kelly Is Coming From Sing Sing

Sheriff Has Order to Get Man for New Trial on Murder Charge

An order directing the warden of Sing Sing prison to surrender Edward H. Kelly to the custody of Sheriff Cluett Schantz was entered in the county clerk's office late Monday afternoon and Sheriff Schantz will go to Sing Sing today and bring Kelly back to the county jail to await a second trial for the alleged murder of Mrs. Eloise McHugh in May, 1950.

Kelly, convicted on first degree murder, won a reversal of his conviction before the Court of Appears on a technicality in the charge to the jury. The conviction was set aside and a new trial granted.

Faced Electric Chair

Edward H. Kelly, former Kingston real estate broker, was charged with murder, first degree, for the shooting of Mrs. McHugh on Main street last May. He was found guilty last September by a jury and sentenced to death in the electric chair. Whitman H. Knapp of 25 Broad street, New York city, a prominent criminal attorney was assigned to argue the appeal before the state's highest court and the conviction was set aside.

Kelly will be held in the county jail pending a new trial. District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn on Monday indicated the case would not be reached until next fall.

Hospital Patient Dies

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—A patient at the Hudson River State Hospital died today of injuries suffered when he tried to leap onto the rear of a laundry truck and fell to the ground. The patient, Wilfred D. Brisson, 51, of Cohoes, was among 35 patients in the care of two attendants in the hospital yard yesterday when he ran into the truck. The truck was making the rounds of various buildings on the grounds.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, June 12 (AP)—The position of the Treasury June 8: Net budget receipts $169,812,290.28; budget expenditures $496,896,139.96; cash balance $4,781,746,834.97; customs receipts for month $12,803,489.05; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $41,786,621,674.85; budget expenditures fiscal year $40,151,149,185.15; budget surplus $1,635,472,489.70; total debt $254,673,310,485.86; increase over previous day $3,787,889.40; gold assets $21,756,062,343.45.

Charges Dropped Against Students

Troy, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Disorderly conduct charges were dropped today against seven Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute students arrested in a near-riot May 23.

City Prosecutor Phillip Cirrilo moved to withdraw the charges.

He told Judge Thomas O'Connor of police court that the seven were "not the ringleaders" in what he described as an "unfortunate incident." He said the students had arranged to pay for damage to police uniforms.

The youths were seized during a two-hour melee of about 700 students on and near the campus.

The students were: Willard Eastman, 22, Seneca Falls; Charles C. Curran, 25, Mountain Lake, N. J.; Norman Brown, 27, Greenville; John Byren, 19, Lakewood, N. J.; William C. East, 19, Kingston; Parul Jaenchen, 20, Floral Park, and Laurence Langley, 20, Orangeburg.

International Complication

This is the result of a three-car collision at 23rd street and Sixth avenue, New York, June 10, as cars from New Jersey, upstate New York and Canada wound up in this unusual fashion. The New Jersey car (left) has a smashed front, and the Canadian car, after overturning, ended with two wheels atop the hood of the New York car. Four persons riding in the Canadian car were treated for cuts and bruises.

Auto Thief Goes to Prison After Violation of Parole

Automobile stealing in Ulster county is going to be an unprofitable business in the future, if sentences such as was imposed by County Judge John M. Cashin Monday are continued.

William Henry Robinson, an employe at the Esopus Lake Hotel, was sentenced to a term of from 1½ to 3 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison for the taking of his employer's car. Robinson had been in difficulty before on a grand larceny, second degree charge. Following that indictment, Mr. Svirsky had enough faith in Robinson to have him paroled in his custody. While still in the custody of Mr. Svirsky, Robinson took his employer's car and drove it to Kingston where he wrecked it near the intersection of Broadway and Delaware avenue. For that act he was indicted for grand larceny, first degree. Monday he entered a plea of guilty to one of the grand larceny, first degree counts.

In sentencing Robinson, Judge Cashin said the act was particularly vicious after the treatment Svirsky had accorded the defendant. He said the court was determined to stamp out car thievery in Ulster county if possible. Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Robinson by assignment. The first count of the two count indictment was dismissed.

Paradise You're Seeking May Be Tough on Humanity

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(A.P. Science Reporter)

Atlantic City, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Tired of trouble? Wish you could find a Paradise?

Well, Paradise might be a dandy thing for you personally, but tough on the future of the human race, a medical exhibit at the American Medical Association's 100th annual meeting shows.

Ups and downs, hard times and good times, are apparently a good thing for the human race, said Drs. R. R. Spencer and M. B. Melroy of the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md.

Dr. Spencer told of little one-celled animals, paramecia, that won Paradise. Paradise was plenty of food, a fine temperature, no enemies, everything that science thinks a paramecium would love.

In eight years, the whole population of Paramecia died out. This happened to six different strains of them. But paramecia that lived under normal troubles and windfalls are going strong, maybe because changes and challenges "keep them on their toes," Dr. Spencer said.

In another experiment, bacteria were exposed continuously to a temperature of 125 degrees, or enough to be slightly lethal. In three days all of them were dead.

But bacteria exposed to hot temperature, then normal, then hot, then normal, kept on thriving. Great numbers of individuals died,

Garment Workers Union Calls Out 65,000; Are Not Involved

A work stoppage by more than 65,000 members of the A.F.L. International Ladies Garment Workers Union has not affected Kingston needletrade plants according to claims by both union and management local representatives.

In New York, however, the Associated Press reported that about 45,000 of those called out by the ILGWU work in the city's garment center, and that the union said most of the others affected are in Kingston and other upstate New York cities; Newark, Camden, Passaic, and Jersey City, N. J.; on Long Island and in Connecticut.

Efforts to contact Jacob J. Schneider, business manager of Kingston Local 259, ILGWU, this morning were without result. A spokesman in the local's office at 277 Fair street, however, after several calls issued an apparently

Air Horns to Be Sounded at Central Station; Ulster Hose Will Take Part

A practice air raid warning test will be conducted in this city at noon on Saturday, June 16, it was ordered today by Sherwood E. Davis, city civilian defense director.

The warning will be sounded on air horns located at Central Fire Station on East O'Reilly street, and Cornell Fire Station on Abeel street. The Ulster Hose Company siren also will sound during the test.

Upon hearing the signal, all paid, volunteer and auxiliary firemen will report to their respective fire stations and await further orders, Davis announced. Civilians were advised to listen for instructions at the time of the signal on Radio Station WKNY.

Warning Signal

The public warning signal is a signal of three minutes' duration, consisting of either a fluctuating or warbling signal of varying pitch by air raid siren or a succession of intermittent blast by a horn or whistle.

The all clear signal, which will also be transmitted to the public, will consist of a series of three one-minute steady blasts by the air raid siren, horn or whistle, each blast to be separated from the previous blast by an interval of two minutes of silence.

During Saturday's test, scouts will be stationed in various sections of the city to test the effectiveness of the signal.

Council Couldn't Act

Because two-thirds of the membership of the Common Council were not present at a special meeting Monday night, no action could be taken on the proposed bond issue of $15,000 to finance sewer construction in the Singer housing development on West Chestnut street. Only eight aldermen were present with Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly. A two-thirds affirmative vote of the membership is required in order to approve a bond issue, according to Alderman-at-Large Kelly. No date has been set for another special meeting to consider the bond issue.

Sentence Is Given

New York, June 12 (AP)—A sentence of five to ten years in prison was imposed yesterday on a 34-year-old carpenter who beat a baby to death when it cried. The defendant, Eugene Lantwicki, had pleaded guilty to second-degree manslaughter in the death of seven-month-old Michael Vitollo. Sentence was imposed by Bronx County Judge James M. Barrett. A prosecutor told the judge that the child was born through the illicit relationship of Lantwicki and Mrs. Lillian Vitollo, both married.

Stout Lines Defend Sino Pullback

Reports Tell That Foe Is Building Forces in Section 30 Miles From Seoul

March Is Long

Reds Have 50-Mile Line to Traverse on East Front

Tokyo, June 12 (AP)—Three long columns of Reds fled through east Korea's mountain's today to escape being trapped by allied tanks rumbling through their fallen "iron triangle."

Stout new defense lines protected the Reds' retreat from the east-central front.

United Nations troops mopped up Reds in hills around captured Chorwon and Kumhwa. The towns formed the southern anchors of the Pyonggang valley iron triangle buildup area. Chinese headed for the hills on each side of the valley.

American tanks striking up roads from the triangle to the east coast would cut squarely across the Red escape route from the eastern front.

While Reds were pulling back from the fighting fronts, unverified reports cropped up that they were building up new forces only 30 miles northwest of Seoul. The buildup was reported in the Kaesong-Korangpo area.

This is near the foot of the allied western flank. This flank drags southwest of the main front. It reaches from Chorwon to a point 35 miles to the southwest, running roughly along the banks of the Imjin river.

Pushes Northward

While the UN counterattack has pushed northward along a narrowing front, patrols have probed this long flank daily for signs of Red strength.

The jagged northern front has been cut to about 75 miles. At the height of the Communist spring offensive it was 125 miles long.

(Precisely what is happening on the front is hidden by tightening military censorship.

(Few front line dispatches have been permitted through in recent days. Those few are heavily censored.)

U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said only scattered groups of Chinese soldiers offered delaying defense of the former Red buildup area around Chorwon and Kumhwa.

Communists were reported anchoring their new defense line on Kumsong. The highway town guards the escape route for North Koreans on the eastern front.

Have Long March

Reds have a 50-mile march over mountain trails and roads from the Inje-Yanggu area of the eastern front to a highway junction above Kumsong. The highway runs from Kumhwa, through Kumsong to the East coast highway that lies under the guns of blockading U.N. warships.

When North Koreans cross this route, they would still have to cross the Pyonggang valley, running northward from the iron triangle to Wonsan on the east coast. Beyond lies the next expected main Red defense line—Wonsan to Pyongyang, Red capital in western Korea.

AP Correspondent George MacArthur reported the Allies advanced warily through the mountainous east. They combed ridges which north Koreans defended bitterly for days and then abruptly abandoned.

Advancing U. N. forces expected to bump at any time into new defenses guarding the escape route. In some places they hit the new defenses solidly.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said the eastern advance was "limited by adverse weather, difficult terrain and determined enemy resistance."

Showers and low hanging clouds failed to ground U.N. war planes. They flew 750 sorties Monday.

Three American planes were shot down over Red territory—an F-80 Shooting Star jet and two F-51 Mustangs. One pilot was rescued.

Fighter bombers hit Communist supply routes, air fields, storage routes and buildings. Cargo planes flew 1,100 tons of ammunition and fuel to front line U.N. troops, landing on muddy air fields only 15 miles behind the front.

Kelly Is Coming From Sing Sing

Sheriff Has Order to Get Man for New Trial on Murder Charge

An order directing the warden of Sing Sing prison to surrender Edward H. Kelly to the custody of Sheriff Cluett Schantz was entered in the county clerk's office late Monday afternoon and Sheriff Schantz will go to Sing Sing today and bring Kelly back to the county jail to await a second trial for the alleged murder of Mrs. Eloise McHugh in May, 1950.

Kelly, convicted on first degree murder, won a reversal of his conviction before the Court of Appears on a technicality in the charge to the jury. The conviction was set aside and a new trial granted.

Faced Electric Chair

Edward H. Kelly, former Kingston real estate broker, was charged with murder, first degree, for the shooting of Mrs. McHugh on Main street last May. He was found guilty last September by a jury and sentenced to death in the electric chair. Whitman H. Knapp of 25 Broad street, New York city, a prominent criminal attorney was assigned to argue the appeal before the state's highest court and the conviction was set aside.

Kelly will be held in the county jail pending a new trial. District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn on Monday indicated the case would not be reached until next fall.

New Appointee Will Serve Remainder of Year; Vote Now 9-4

The resignation of Alderman J. Richard Smith, Democrat, of the Seventh Ward, was announced today by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk. To fill Smith's unexpired term, the mayor has named Joseph Rodden of 107 Hudson street, a Republican committeeman.

Smith's resignation came, he said in a letter to the mayor and the Common Council, because he has accepted a position in another city.

Rodden, the new appointee, will serve until December 31, 1951. An employe of Island Dock, Inc., he is president of Local 720, Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders Union. He is a member of St. Peter's Church in this city. Organizations to which he belongs include the Kingston Power Boat Association and Kingston Lodge 550, B.P.O. Elks. He has been active in the Republican Party for a number of years.

Nine to Four Edge

The replacement of Smith by a Republican alderman gives the Republicans a theoretical nine to four edge over Democrats in the Council. In practice, however, the Republican majority will be nine to three, as one of the Democratic members, Charles J. Cole of the Thirteenth Ward, will leave this week for active duty with the U. S. Navy.

Smith, prior to his resignation, was absent from five consecutive regular meetings of the Council, due to pressure of business.

Alderman Smith's letter of resignation, dated June 11, stated, in part:

"I have accepted a position in another city and since I can no longer dedicate the time and attention required by my position as Alderman of the Seventh Ward, I feel that in the interest of everyone concerned it is my duty to resign said position." He also expressed "grateful thanks to the people of the Seventh Ward and the city of Kingston for their kind cooperation and to the members of the Common Council for a pleasant association."

Smith has been employed by the Forst Packing Company of this city. Although he could not be reached this morning for a statement on his new position, it was understood that he had passed a State Civil Service examination as meat inspector and that that job will take him to another city.

State Opens Probe Into Dope Traffic Among Teen-Agers

Recorded Story Tells How Girl Took Narcotics at Age of 13, Led to Prostitution

New York, June 12 (AP)—A 16-year-old girl's dramatic tape-recorded story of how narcotics led her to prostitution and thievery today opened a state hearing into dope traffic among teen-agers.

Hushed spectators in the hearing room heard her tell how she first tried drugs as a lark at the age of 13 while attending a dance.

"It was during my summer vacation," said the anonymous girl. "At this dance one of the fellows that I met was smoking a reefer. He asked me if I would like to smoke one.

"I was curious and said I would like to and so I smoked one."

And then another and another. Four months later she tried cocaine. Five months after that she was sniffing heroin.

Now the drugs had become a habit, and funds to purchase them became a problem.

Sent to Institution

She and a boy friend broke into a house in their Bronx neighborhood in search of money. They were caught, and she was sent to a mental institution for six months.

On her release, she took up with another boy and began using drugs again.

"My boy friend supplied me whenever he could with heroin," she said. "We would go out together and get high. I used to sleep with him whenever we got high."

The next step, she said, was a sex relationship with an older man to obtain money for drugs.

Note of Hope

Ending her story on a note of hope, she said she now had met a boy who took a "sincere interest" in her and that she was trying to break the drug habit.

Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein, in a brief opening statement, said that crime did not lead to narcotics, but that narcotics led to crime.

Goldstein said "too many have been laboring too long in a vacuum" concerning use of dope by teen-agers.

The purpose of the hearing, following two months of investigation, was to outline the condition and state the problem, Goldstein said.

There were hints that the inquiry into narcotics traffic in the city's schools might become one of New York's biggest recent sensations.

Superintendent of Schools William Jansen was expected to be the main witness at today's initial public hearings.

Jansen was the only witness identified by State Attorney Gen-

Charges Dropped Against Students

Troy, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Disorderly conduct charges were dropped today against seven Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute students arrested in a near-riot May 23.

City Prosecutor Phillip Cirrilo moved to withdraw the charges.

He told Judge Thomas O'Connor of police court that the seven were "not the ringleaders" in what he described as an "unfortunate incident." He said the students had arranged to pay for damage to police uniforms.

The youths were seized during a two-hour melee of about 700 students on and near the campus.

The students were: Willard Eastman, 22, Seneca Falls; Charles C. Curran, 25, Mountain Lake, N. J.; Norman Brown, 27, Greenville; John Byren, 19, Lakewood, N. J.; William C. East, 19, Kingston; Parul Jaenchen, 20, Floral Park, and Laurence Langley, 20, Orangeburg.

Air Force Rules Icing Was Reason Eight Jets Crashed

No Indication of Sabotage Revealed in Probe by Groups at Capital

Washington, June 12 (AP)—The air force today ruled out sabotage and said icing of engine inlet screens caused the crash of eight jet fighters over Indiana last Friday.

The investigation conducted by the air force, the FBI, and plane manufacturers has revealed "no indication of sabotage," the air force said.

The eight planes were among 34 F-84 Thunderjets flying from Austin, Tex., to Selfridge Field, Mich. The eight crashed a few minutes after taking off after a refueling stop at Wright-Patterson Field, Dayton, Ohio.

Three pilots were killed.

The air force said in a formal statement that all of the 71 planes involved in the training flight are being inspected "on a round-the-clock" basis, to determine whether they showed any effects from flying through the area where the fatal accidents occurred.

Some 14 of the planes which arrived safely at Selfridge Field have already been checked, the air force said, but have revealed "no signs of visible damage and are ready for flight."

The preliminary investigation showed that the icing was "due to a peculiar set of localized atmospheric conditions," the air force statement asserted.

Garment Workers Union Calls Out 65,000; Are Not Involved

A work stoppage by more than 65,000 members of the A.F.L. International Ladies Garment Workers Union has not affected Kingston needletrade plants according to claims by both union and management local representatives.

In New York, however, the Associated Press reported that about 45,000 of those called out by the ILGWU work in the city's garment center, and that the union said most of the others affected are in Kingston and other upstate New York cities; Newark, Camden, Passaic, and Jersey City, N. J.; on Long Island and in Connecticut.

Efforts to contact Jacob J. Schneider, business manager of Kingston Local 259, ILGWU, this morning were without result. A spokesman in the local's office at 277 Fair street, however, after several calls issued an apparently

This is the result of a three-car collision at 23rd street and Sixth avenue, New York, June 10, as cars from New Jersey, upstate New York and Canada wound up in this unusual fashion. The New Jersey car (left) has a smashed front, and the Canadian car, after overturning, ended with two wheels atop the hood of the New York car. Four persons riding in the Canadian car were treated for cuts and bruises.

Auto Thief Goes to Prison After Violation of Parole

Automobile stealing in Ulster county is going to be an unprofitable business in the future, if sentences such as was imposed by County Judge John M. Cashin Monday are continued.

William Henry Robinson, an employe at the Esopus Lake Hotel, was sentenced to a term of from 1½ to 3 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison for the taking of his employer's car. Robinson had been in difficulty before on a grand larceny, second degree charge. Following that indictment, Mr. Svirsky had enough faith in Robinson to have him paroled in his custody. While still in the custody of Mr. Svirsky, Robinson took his employer's car and drove it to Kingston where he wrecked it near the intersection of Broadway and Delaware avenue. For that act he was indicted for grand larceny, first degree. Monday he entered a plea of guilty to one of the grand larceny, first degree counts.

In sentencing Robinson, Judge Cashin said the act was particularly vicious after the treatment Svirsky had accorded the defendant. He said the court was determined to stamp out car thievery in Ulster county if possible. Andrew J. Cook, Jr., appeared for Robinson by assignment. The first count of the two count indictment was dismissed.

Paradise You're Seeking May Be Tough on Humanity

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(A.P. Science Reporter)

Atlantic City, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Tired of trouble? Wish you could find a Paradise?

Well, Paradise might be a dandy thing for you personally, but tough on the future of the human race, a medical exhibit at the American Medical Association's 100th annual meeting shows.

Ups and downs, hard times and good times, are apparently a good thing for the human race, said Drs. R. R. Spencer and M. B. Melroy of the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md.

Dr. Spencer told of little one-celled animals, paramecia, that won Paradise. Paradise was plenty of food, a fine temperature, no enemies, everything that science thinks a paramecium would love.

In eight years, the whole population of Paramecia died out. This happened to six different strains of them. But paramecia that lived under normal troubles and windfalls are going strong, maybe because changes and challenges "keep them on their toes," Dr. Spencer said.

In another experiment, bacteria were exposed continuously to a temperature of 125 degrees, or enough to be slightly lethal. In three days all of them were dead.

But bacteria exposed to hot temperature, then normal, then hot, then normal, kept on thriving. Great numbers of individuals died,

Museum Gems Stolen

Albany, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Somebody has lifted several hundred dollars worth of genuine and artificial gems from display cases in the State Museum, Dr. Carl E. Guthe, museum director, said yesterday the theft was discovered last Tuesday. He said the articles, which included replicas of the Hope Diamond and other famous stones, were taken from a case after padlocks had been pried off. Immunization to Stop

New York, June 12 (AP)—The New York City Department of Health announced yesterday it will not immunize children against diphtheria and whooping cough during the polio season. Research indicates, the announcement said, that persons recently immunized may develop a more severe paralysis in the injected limb if they become ill with poliomyelitis. Dr. John F. Mahoney, health commissioner, added, however: "It must be made clear that we know immunization is not the cause, or even a cause, of poliomyelitis."

Financial and Commercial

By RADER WINGET

New York, June 12 (AP)—Slight early progress today in the stock market was smothered by scattered selling, and prices turned highly mixed.

The spread of prices was about a dollar either way, but there was no regularity in the reaction of major divisions.

Steels, motors, chemicals, and air lines were mostly lower. Utilities and rails were mixed. Aircrafts and distillers made fractional progress.

Missouri Pacific ran up more than a point at times when the possibility of another reorganization plan developed. That resulted from a motion in U. S. District Court in St. Louis for a delay in hearings on the present reorganization plan.

Beech Aircraft was a feature of a higher aircraft section on news of war orders. U. S. Industrial Chemical and National Distillers headed the higher contingent in the distilling group.

Stocks holding to the upside included Northern Pacific, Gulf Oil, American Smelting, General Electric, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft and Radio Corp.

Plus signs held the edge in the curb market. Moving up were American Hard Rubber (whose management is proposing a two-for-one split and elimination of its $7 preferred), Barium Steel, Bunker Hill & Sullivan, Fairchild Camera, Fansteel Metallurgical, Molybdenum, and U. S. Foil "B."

The spread of prices was about a dollar either way, but there was no regularity in the reaction of major divisions.

Steels, motors, chemicals, and air lines were mostly lower. Utilities and rails were mixed. Aircrafts and distillers made fractional progress.

Missouri Pacific ran up more than a point at times when the possibility of another reorganization plan developed. That resulted from a motion in U. S. District Court in St. Louis for a delay in hearings on the present reorganization plan.

Beech Aircraft was a feature of a higher aircraft section on news of war orders. U. S. Industrial Chemical and National Distillers headed the higher contingent in the distilling group.

Stocks holding to the upside included Northern Pacific, Gulf Oil, American Smelting, General Electric, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft and Radio Corp.

Plus signs held the edge in the curb market. Moving up were American Hard Rubber (whose management is proposing a two-for-one split and elimination of its $7 preferred), Barium Steel, Bunker Hill & Sullivan, Fairchild Camera, Fansteel Metallurgical, Molybdenum, and U. S. Foil "B."

dents who became involved in a burglary last September, were given jail sentences on their plea of guilty to unlawful entry. Both have become involved with the law in Sullivan county as a result of the transaction and have been given jail terms there. John Larkin appeared by assignment for Rosencrance and Howard C. St. John appeared for Duffy. Rosencrance has served his time in Sullivan county and Duffy is serving his time now. Both were given 98 days in the Ulster county jail, the time Rosencrance has served, and credit for that time was allowed. Both men were told to get out and stay out of Ulster county. The burglary charge was dismissed. There is also a grand larceny charge against Rosencrance.

Changes Plea

Paul Bush, charged with burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry, changed a plea of innocent to one of guilty to unlawful entry and given six months in the county jail. Howard C. St. John appeared by assignment. The burglary charge was dismissed. He was given credit for the time already served. Bush was brought back to Mt. Tremper from Florida this spring by a Mt. Tremper resident. He proceeded to steal various articles from the home of his employer and then start back for Florida. He was apprehended and removed from the bus. The burglary indictment was dismissed and Bush was told to use the Florida ticket and get back home when his term is over.

George Federal, Catskill, was given a 1 to 2 year term in Clinton State Prison on his plea of guilty to malicious destruction of property. The sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation. Federal is one of several men who were charged with damaging the Knauss mushroom property during a labor dispute. The first count was dismissed. N. J. Friedman appeared for Federal.

Enters Guilty Plea

Mabel Carr, formerly of Port Ewen, entered a plea of guilty to one of four counts charging issuance of fraudulent checks. She entered a plea of guilty to violation of Section 1292-a of the penal law. Bernard A. Culloton appeared for the defendant by assignment. He told the court that Miss Carr had become involved in a sale of a jeep with a Port Ewen resident, that there had apparently been an arrangement for a joint bank account and she had been authorized to draw checks against the jeep deposit. However she issued two small fraudulent checks. At present she is employed in Schenectady where she is supporting a child. Judge Culloton told the court she would make restitution and asked lenience. She was sentenced to 12 months in the county jail and that sentence was suspended and she was placed on probation. Her probation will be transferred to Schenectady.

Several other criminal cases were set down for Wednesday morning by District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn.

Says Manufacturer Has Right to Refuse

Saranac Lake, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—The chairman of the Federal Trade Commission maintains that a manufacturer has the right to refuse to sell his merchandise to retailers who will not sign fair trade agreements.

James M. Mead said yesterday that it was a "fundamental law" that a manufacturer "engaged in an entirely private business has a right freely to exercise his own independent discretion in the selection of his customers."

The former New York senator spoke yesterday at the 73rd annual convention of the New York State Pharmaceutical Association.

State Opens Probe

eral Nathaniel L. Goldstein, who is conducting the probe.

A lively session was in prospect, as Goldstein and Jansen have differed sharply on the narcotics question.

Their disagreement became public two weeks ago when Jansen reported that there were only 154 dope addicts among the city's 306,000 junior and senior high school students.

Goldstein immediately termed the figure "ridiculously low." A member of his staff said the "absolute minimum" was 5,000, with other estimates up to 15,000.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who ordered the investigation following the U. S. Senate Crime Committee hearings here in March, supported the attorney general's contention.

Governor 'Deeply Disturbed'

The governor said he was "deeply disturbed" about the "new problem" of teen-age addiction after he conferred yesterday with Goldstein. Dewey added:

"The question as to whether that has come about as a result of a post-war let-down, or lack of enforcement, or because there has been a new technique among local distributors is one that should be a major result of the inquiry."

Dewey returned to Albany after completing final details with Goldstein for today's public hearings. The sessions are expected to take three days.

New York city showed considerable interest in the inquiry. The municipal radio station, WNYC, planned to broadcast full proceedings. Other stations said they would carry portions.

Goldstein said television would be barred.

Dewey said that following the present inquiry, studies will be made to determine remedial measures. Both he and Goldstein said there is a lack of facilities in the state for treating addicts and checking on past patients.

Railroad Car Is Damaged by Fire

A fire of uncertain origin caused slight damage to an empty railroad refrigerator car on a siding near Cornell street about 10:50 p. m. Monday.

The fire department reported the fire was confined to paper which covered the floor of the car, and was extinguished with a pump stream.

Patrolmen Harold DeGraff and Meyer Levy reported that two vagrants were seen coming from the railroad car just before the fire was discovered. No description of the men could be obtained.

The car was a Merchandise Dispatch Transportation refrigerator car with a capacity of 70,000 pounds, and was standing in the Leon Wilber and Son coal company yard near the intersection of Tremper avenue and Cornell street when the fire was discovered.

Iran Tells U. S.

Iran would take the utmost care to continue and to increase the present level of oil production.

"The Parliament of Iran, like yourself, desire that the interests of the countries which hitherto have used Iranian oil should not suffer in the slightest degree," the premier told the U. S. President.

An unofficial translation of the text was released here by the Iranian Foreign Office after a 24-hour delay, so that the message first would reach President Truman.

Blamed for Ills

Assuring Mr. Truman of Iran's friendship toward the United States and of continued efforts to protect "our cordial relations with the British government," the premier at the same time bitterly blamed the Anglo-Iranian Company for many of Iran's postwar ills.

"For many years," said the message, "the Iranian government has been dissatisfied with the activities of the former Anglo-Iranian Oil Company."

He added that he could give the President "unshakeable documentary evidence that the accounts of the company did not correspend to the true facts."

"The Iranian people suffered these events a good many years, with the result that they are now in the clutches of a terrible poverty and an acute distress," Mossadegh wrote.

The premier told Mr. Truman: "Had we been left alone after the war we could have dealt with the situation * * *. Had we been given outside help, like other countries * * * we could soon have revived our economy.

"Even without that help we could have succeeded in our efforts had we not been hampered by the greed of the company and the activities of its agents."

PROTECTING RECORDS

The problem of protecting business records in the event of total destruction of the building housing an industrial plant or other establishment has been receiving attention from the National Industrial Conference Board. It became interested in the matter principally from the standpoint of protection from the hazards of possible war. Studies in this country, and comparisons with experience and programs in England, led to the conclusion that most American business places are poorly prepared, as far as care of their records is concerned, for the kind of destruction brought by war.

Planning for such eventualities is largely governed by the visible need for it. It has been so long since Americans have had to deal with the destructiveness of war in our own land that the need somehow seems unreal. A more conceivable danger is that of fire, which destroys American property every day. Yet the findings of the Conference Board suggest that business places are as ill prepared for that kind of loss of their records as for loss through bombing.

What is said of business in this respect probably is true to a much greater extent of individuals. How many homes, for instance, have stored away in a safe place an inventory of household belongings, on which to base a claim for insurance if the house should burn to the ground? How many persons have a place to keep their most valuable—not the most treasured but the most essential—papers where they would not be destroyed in a fire? These are simple and seemingly elemental precautions, yet they are often neglected.

Many Americans will refuse to believe in the shortage of materials or the presence of inflation as long as they can continue to get new cars.

STILL MORE MEN

When the Bureau of the Census first announced, last year, that the female population exceeded the male population for the first time, the revelation set off something like a chain reaction of speculation and conclusions about the relative positions of the sexes in various phases of American life. Special attention has been given to the matter of courting and marriage possibilities, and some single men may have acquired an exaggerated idea of their own significance.

Interim reports on analysis of the 1950 census figures, however, tend to deflate the adult male's sense of security in numbers. The excess of female population occurs in the age division below 14 years. In the age division above that point, there continue to be more men than women. Moreover, there are more single men than single women.

So let the unattached young miss take a new grip on her hopes for marriage, if that is what she hopes for. And let the unattached man put this information in his pipe and smoke it.

In a society of fools many wise men decline to talk and those who do are usually ignored. But most fools will talk in any society and too frequently their words are listened to.

PROGRESS OF BENELUX

Economic union is making progress in Europe. The signing of an agreement for the Schuman Plan to create a supernational authority to administer the production and distribution of coal and steel has been widely publicized. Attention also should be given to the success of a less ambitious scheme, the so-called "Benelux" economic union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Tariffs among the three countries are be[illegible]largely eliminated. Of Belgium's exports to the Netherlands, ninety per cent are free [illegible]om restriction. The other ten per cent are agricultural products which are subject to local controls, much as the distribution of [illegible]margarine is regulated in our dairy [illegible]. There are still some difficulties, of [illegible]he most important is the difference [illegible]e currencies of the three countries.

Some think that the next step may be the adherence, at least in part, of France to this promising new organization of her neighbors. Europe is progressing toward cooperation in purpose and action.

THE HONOLULU CONFERENCE

On July 29, 1944, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and General Douglas MacArthur ended a four-day visit in Honolulu. Present were Admirals Chester W. Nimitz and William F. Halsey, Jr., and others. Admiral William D. Leahy and Elmer Davis, then head of the OWI, accompanied the President.

The purpose of this conference was to discuss the Pacific war and its relationship to the entire picture. General MacArthur took the position that the re-conquest of the Philippines would split the Japanese empire, that our naval activities would leave the Japanese homeland without an adequate supply of rice which is the essential food of the Japanese people. Thus, the Japanese would be starved into an unconditional surrender. Consequently, it would deprive their forces of support from the homeland.

Soviet Russia was, in 1944, neutral in our war with Japan. Roosevelt had, at Teheran, raised the issue of Russian participation but had not accomplished it. MacArthur's attitude was that if the strategy of starvation of Japan were pursued, it would be of no advantage to the United States for Soviet Russia to come in. He feared Russia's demands upon China—a fear that was subsequently justified by the facts.

That Japan was starved into submission is an established historic fact, fully documented at the Tokyo trials Even before the atom bomb was hurled at Hiroshima, Japan was a broken nation. My own information from Japanese friends of long standing makes this clear. As long as Japan had food, she could fight. She collapsed with 3,000,000 uncommitted troops because her food was unavailable.

Yet, Dean Acheson, in his defense of Yalta, makes the point that in February 1945, Roosevelt was forced to make the enormous concessions he did make to Soviet Russia with regard to China, Manchuria and Korea because he was so anxious to get Russia into the Far Eastern war; he was uncertain of victory: the atom bomb was not yet a success.

It is beyond understanding that Roosevelt, in February 1945, was oblivious to the great success that MacArthur and Nimitz had already achieved in the Pacific. The Philippines had been invaded and the First Cavalry and other forces were already in Manila. Shipping off the China coast was being bombed by our planes. The conquest of Japan by starvation, explained to Roosevelt at Honolulu in 1944, was actually becoming effective.

Roosevelt could not have been so pessimistic that he could have believed that it was necessary to give Russia a free hand in China, Manchuria and Northern Korea.

Besides, for this enormous compensation, Russia agreed to come into the Far Eastern war, three months after the Germans were defeated. It must have been clear on February 11, 1945, to anyone who could calculate, that three months after Germany was defeated, in view of what was already happening to Japan, the Japanese would not be able to stand against the additional power that would be freed for Pacific warfare. Up to that time, the Pacific area had had only a small fraction of our power.

No discussion of Yalta by those who were present at that conference, thus far, explains Roosevelt's generosity to Stalin. Nor why he violated his own principles as stated in the Atlantic Charter by transferring territory from one country to another without the consent of the deprived country.

Acheson's explanation that China consented is adroit but untrue. The documentation of the case proves otherwise. What is true is that Roosevelt undertook to get Chiang Kai-shek to agree to the terms arranged at Yalta. This is included in the Yalta agreement and I quoted the text of it in a recent article. Chiang was in no condition to flout Roosevelt at that time.

T. V. Soong, on June 30, 1945, was in Moscow. He conferred with Stalin. A treaty of friendship was ratified (August 24, 1945) to respect each other's sovereignty and territorial integrity. The Russian government pledged itself not to interfere in the internal affairs of China. The two countries agreed to mutual aid against any future Japanese aggression. The treaty was to last 30 years. Soviet Russia was violating the treaty while it was being signed.

It is beyond understanding that Dean Acheson did not discuss these matters precisely as they occurred. Maybe, they were not called to his attention or he was not questioned about them. I have tried to read the 2,000,000 words of testimony; yet I did not find these pertinent facts.

That Body of Yours

TREATMENT OF HEMORRHOIDS

One of the meanest ailments that afflicts mankind is hemorrhoids, or piles as they are popularly called. Although hemorrhoids are only varicose veins, they are so situated that, while painful practically at all times, they are especially so when and after a bowel movement occurs.

Hemorrhoids are caused by any pressure on this region, but constipation due to a sluggish liver is the commonest cause.

Overweight is another cause.

Because sufferers hear of the different forms of treatment—removal by surgery or injections, use of ointment and drugs to shrink the hemorrhoids—they are at a loss as to which is the best method of treatment.

Physicians and surgeons are in general agreement as to the best method of treatment. Treatment depends on first, the location of the hemorrhoids, that is, whether or not they are low down in the last few inches of the bowel and come out through the opening on the surrounding skin. These hemorrhoids that come out are called external hemorrhoids. Internal hemorrhoids are those placed up in the bowel, several inches above the opening and do not come out.

In American Practitioner, Dr. Emil Granet, New York city, states that external swollen hemorrhoids, when small, can usually be treated by the patient himself by applicaton of witch hazel and water dressings. While he does not recommend ointment or suppositories, most patients get considerable relief from suppositories which relieve pain and help shrink the hemeorrhoids.

If the hemorrhoid or hemorrhoids are large and seen early, they can be removed by surgery, sometimes in the surgeon's office. Most of these cases, however, enter hospital for a few days or a week.

In the case of internal hemorrhoids, many of these cases get along without treatment, as the hemorrhoids never come out. The general treatment of internal hemorrhoids where severe pain is present is injecting them with a solution which dries them up. They will then slough off. This treatment is usually given in the office of the surgeon who perhaps injects just one or two hemorrhoids every 5 to 7 days. This sort of treatment is a great boon to the patient as he loses no time from work, has no hospital fees and no need for an anaesthetic.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Big, balding Louey Johnson has taken his demise as secretary of defense with far better grace than most men who are bounced from the cabinet. Another who served in that post cracked up. Others have sulked or turned against the President.

Johnson, however, has not. In fact, he recently had a friendly talk with the man who fired him, Harry S. Truman—partly as a result of a radio broadcast.

For a time, the Republicans were confident they had Louey Johnson in their corner. They were especially jubilant when the MacArthur hearings started, for they counted on Johnson as a star witness against the administration. Supposedly it was all set for him to testify regarding his talks with MacArthur in Tokyo.

But when word to this effect was forecast on the air by this newscaster, Brig. Gen. Louis Renfrow who heard the broadcast and who was Johnson's assistant in the Defense Department, telephoned him.

"I just heard what Drew Pearson said, Louey," urged Renfrow, "and I don't want you to do anything until we can talk it over."

Next day they had lunch together.

"I've been your good friend and stuck by you," Renfrow said, "but we'll have to say good-bye if you start hitting the administration on this MacArthur issue. You stay out of it. You never had a real quarrel with Dean Acheson. It was only with some of his subordinates."

Johnson agreed.

"Will you phone Drew and tell him that?" Renfrow asked. Johnson agreed to call and did so.

Renfrow then went to the President, told him of the conversation and the President immediately phoned Johnson to thank him. They had a pleasant talk, the first since Louey left the cabinet.

Missouri Friendships Don't Fade

Eastern senators are up in arms over the proposed appointment of a new Interstate Commerce Commissioner from Missouri. Since the ICC has the important power of regulating the nation's railroads, a group of senators have introduced a resolution requiring ICC commissioners to be appointed regionally. This is aimed to prevent the Missouri appointment and to secure the appointment of Robert R. Hendon of Maryland, not Missouri.

The Missourian whom President Truman proposes to appoint is Ray Karst, ex-congressman from St. Louis.

What the protesting senators don't know is the inside reason why he has Truman's support. Karst's mother happens to be one of the first political leaders in St. Louis to come out for Truman in 1934 when he was elected to the Senate. Some years later, when Karst was in Congress, he brought his 75-year-old mother in to see the President.

"If it hadn't been for you and a few other loyal supporters in St. Louis," Truman told Mrs. Karst, "I wouldn't be where I am today."

And he gave the congressman's children, Mary Jane, 9, and Ronnie, 7, each a shiny new ball-point pencil with the admonition: "Don't let any FBI men see you with the pencils. They might put you in jail." The saucer-eyed youngsters quickly hid the pencils. They were inscribed: "I swiped this from Harry S. Truman."

Last year, Congressman Karst was defeated for re-election. And the other day, hearing that someone else was to be appointed to the Interstate Commerce Commission, he dropped round to the White House, told the President that he was out of a job, and got a job which made his eyes shine like those of his two children.

Hendon, the Marylander slated for the job, had the potent support of Senator Bob Kerr of Oklahoma; also of Senate Majority Leader McFarland, who attended the University of Oklahoma with Hendon. Hendon is also well-qualified, being a current member of the Defense Transportation Administration.

With Harry Truman, however, old friendships do not die. They don't even fade away.

Lobbying Under the Dome

There's plenty of lobbying going on in the cocktail lounges and hotels of Washington. However, it isn't often that the lobbyists are able to influence congressmen right under the Capitol Dome in the private dining room of ex-Speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts.

Yet that was the amazing feat pulled off recently by popular Congressman Boykin of Mobile, Ala.

Boykin is an amazing, storybook character whose motto is "everything is made for love," and who carries the love motif so far that he holds learned discussions on the love life of animals. In fact, that was the excuse for his recent lobbying luncheon. Members of the fisheries and wildlife committee were invited by Boykin to attend a lunch which Boykin said was to refute Congressman Howard Smith of Virginia who had made a derogatory speech about the "Love Life of the Racoon."

In defense of the raccoon and in order to show that coon meat was good to eat, Boykin invited members of the fisheries and wildlife committee to lunch—at first in the private dining room of Speaker Sam Rayburn, Democrat. At the last minute, however, it was switched to the private dining room of Joe Martin, Republican.

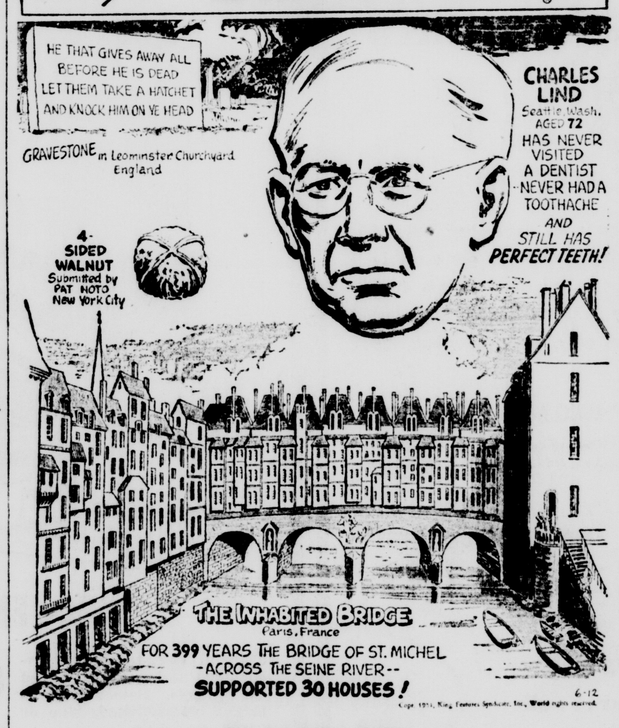

There, members of the fisheries and wildlife committee met eight gentlemen who were not congressmen at all, but representatives of the paper industry—St. Regis, Kraft, Union Bag and other companies. After lunch the paper executives took out some charts and started to lobby against CMR or "controlled materials regulation" of the Office of Price Stabilization.

Some of the congressmen present were flabbergasted at this attempt to influence their vote at a luncheon in the dining room of the ex-speaker of the House of Representatives. They would have been even more flabbergasted, however, had they known that their genial colleague from Alabama and his four children have a large chunk of stock in the Mobile Paper Company and that they had acquired this stock after Boykin's office had been used to get a $750,000 loan from the RFC.

Discovery of the unusual loan transaction by new RFC Director Stuart Symington caused him to demand the resignation of Congressman Boykin's cousin, Frank Prince, the RFC official who handled the Mobile Paper Company loan.

U. S. Would Probe American Support, While Professing Its Own Backing of Nationalists

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 12—Moral support is more important than material support in maintaining a government that is being subjected to Communist infiltration.

This statement by General Wedemeyer, as to the reason why he thought the Nationalist government in China was being steadily undermined in post-war years by the confusing and wavering policies of the Department of State, has particular relevancy at this very moment.

For, strangely enough, the administration, although professing to be the supporter of the Chinese Nationalist government, has just notified the world that it wants to investigate the activities of American citizens and groups which are supporting the Nationalist government of China.

Up to now Secretary of State Acheson, on the witness stand at the Senate hearings, had been most careful not to say anything that could in the slightest degree be interpreted as unfriendly or offensive to any government in alliance with the United States. But the Nationalist government, which is an ally and which is the legally recognized government of China so far as the United States is concerned, is now to be brought under official suspicion. This is worth a good deal to Communist China.

When Mr. Acheson testified, first he was cautious and objective about the rumors that there was such a thing as a "China lobby." He said it was all "hearsay" to him. Then something happened. The next day the secretary volunteered to the Senate committee that the President had authorized him to say that all the executive departments and agencies would be instructed to cooperate in any inquiry Congress might make into the so-called "China lobby." What had been the suggestion of one member of Congress became a presidential policy.

This coincided with a tirade of abuse of the Nationalist government from "left wing" sources which have steadily been seeking to get the President to abandon the Nationalist government, accept the Communist regime and give them recognition and a seat in the U.N.

Just why Mr. Truman allowed himself to be entrapped in what is a public repudiation of the Nationalist government is difficult to understand. For indeed it will be so regarded throughout the world, especially in the Far East. Where else did the critics say the money was coming from to carry on the "China lobby" except from the Nationalist government of China?

The eagerness with which the idea of an investigation was grabbed by the "left wing" here was significant, as was the repetition of the old charges about how corrupt the Chinese Nationalist government is supposed to be.

General Wedemeyer, who knows the China problem intimately, has just testified that, while he denounced corruption and told the Nationalist government from time to time about its weaknesses, he thought this aspect had been overemphasized and that there was some corruption in every government in the world.

While congressional committees naturally have the right and should, of course, inquire into any improper influence which may be exerted, either through lobbies or otherwise, to shape American policy, it was unfortunate that those who championed the idea of the investigation did not originally make it broad enough to include all lobbies. As it was, the news went out to the Far East that the Chinese Nationalist government was conducting a lobby and that President Truman evidently believed that what the Nationalist government was doing to express itself was in some way wrong and illegal and should be investigated.

It was natural that those who resented this as an attempt to undermine the prestige of the Nationalist government should immediately counter with a move to investigate the "Communist Lobby." But, such tactics and counter-tactics on Capitol Hill are not in themselves controlling influences. What is important is that the President and the secretary of state should not, by their published announcement, leave the impression that the support America now is giving to the Nationalist government is perfunctory and insincere. Are efforts once more to be launched from the highest official sources to undermine and weaken the Nationalist government before the Court of American public opinion? That's the way China was lost before. It is regrettable that the "smear" apparently has been revived under the aegis of the President and the secretary of state.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Having recently read my betters a couple of lectures on the duties of our free press, I request permission to amend those commentaries by some endearing observations. The Tampa Morning Tribune and the Miami Herald have fought bravely and with some success against evils in their purview and even beyond, and have maintained the tradition of the crusading press even though Red Newton, the managing editor of the Tribune, dislikes the word "crusade" in this sense because, he says, "it perhaps hints of the sensational."

My dictionary says "sensational" means "suited or intended to excite great interest or emotion; melodramatic; emotional," and it has seemed to me that his campaigns against a local politico-criminal gambling mob have excited great interest and emotion as a requisite of their success. Moreover, I well remember that when Major Frederick Palmer, the chief censor of the A.E.F., admonished the small press corps who had just paid their first visit to the first American sector of the western front in 1916, that their stories must not be sensational, Bobby Small, of the A.P., a stylish little fellow with a sharp tongue, exclaimed "good Gawd A'Mighty, this is the most sensational story since Fort Sumter!"

The Miami Herald, under the ownership of John S. Knight, has changed for the better, but I distinctly recall a time when the Herald was not merely apathetic toward outrageous conditions which were building into the scandals of recent times, but resented intrusions into its local sphere by ink-stained wretches from the vast outside who happened along with the fighters and ball-clubs and wrote what they heard and saw. I regret that I am not well-enough informed on the details of the Herald's crusades to name the heroes who have done the digging and taken the chances but, in brief, the Herald observed that Miami was destined to become a great international port for both airborne and seaborne commerce and already had become, by bribery, neglect and tolerance, the hibernating place of an element which Edgar Hoover described as the criminal scum. Union racketeers were closing in and the mainland and the beach were peopled almost altogether by strangers who knew not one another and were bashful about speaking up.

In sports one came to know the gamblers and thugs from the rogue cities of the north and midwest and even if the Herald in those days was honestly uninformed it should have paid attention and done its job instead of objecting to the revelations of dirt on its doorstep. The haunts of luxury were over-run with bums of great renown who went right into action and soon took over. There was some excuse for indifference or disbelief in union matters, for, to this very day, many papers elsewhere maintain a strong resistance to information proving the fundamental conflict between these bad societies and good government. The Herald since has seen its duty and done it, however, fighting both

What is said of business in this respect probably is true to a much greater extent of individuals. How many homes, for instance, have stored away in a safe place an inventory of household belongings, on which to base a claim for insurance if the house should burn to the ground? How many persons have a place to keep their most valuable—not the most treasured but the most essential—papers where they would not be destroyed in a fire? These are simple and seemingly elemental precautions, yet they are often neglected.

Many Americans will refuse to believe in the shortage of materials or the presence of inflation as long as they can continue to get new cars.

STILL MORE MEN

When the Bureau of the Census first announced, last year, that the female population exceeded the male population for the first time, the revelation set off something like a chain reaction of speculation and conclusions about the relative positions of the sexes in various phases of American life. Special attention has been given to the matter of courting and marriage possibilities, and some single men may have acquired an exaggerated idea of their own significance.

Interim reports on analysis of the 1950 census figures, however, tend to deflate the adult male's sense of security in numbers. The excess of female population occurs in the age division below 14 years. In the age division above that point, there continue to be more men than women. Moreover, there are more single men than single women.

So let the unattached young miss take a new grip on her hopes for marriage, if that is what she hopes for. And let the unattached man put this information in his pipe and smoke it.

In a society of fools many wise men decline to talk and those who do are usually ignored. But most fools will talk in any society and too frequently their words are listened to.

PROGRESS OF BENELUX

Economic union is making progress in Europe. The signing of an agreement for the Schuman Plan to create a supernational authority to administer the production and distribution of coal and steel has been widely publicized. Attention also should be given to the success of a less ambitious scheme, the so-called "Benelux" economic union of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Tariffs among the three countries are be[illegible]largely eliminated. Of Belgium's exports to the Netherlands, ninety per cent are free [illegible]n restriction. The other ten per cent are agricultural products which are subject to local controls, much as the distribution of [illegible]margarine is regulated in our dairy [illegible]. There are still some difficulties, of [illegible]the most important is the difference [illegible]e currencies of the three countries.

Some think that the next step may be the adherence, at least in part, of France to this promising new organization of her neighbors. Europe is progressing toward cooperation in purpose and action.

THE HONOLULU CONFERENCE

On July 29, 1944, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and General Douglas MacArthur ended a four-day visit in Honolulu. Present were Admirals Chester W. Nimitz and William F. Halsey, Jr., and others. Admiral William D. Leahy and Elmer Davis, then head of the OWI, accompanied the President.

The purpose of this conference was to discuss the Pacific war and its relationship to the entire picture. General MacArthur took the position that the re-conquest of the Philippines would split the Japanese empire, that our naval activities would leave the Japanese homeland without an adequate supply of rice which is the essential food of the Japanese people. Thus, the Japanese would be starved into an unconditional surrender. Consequently, it would deprive their forces of support from the homeland.

Soviet Russia was, in 1944, neutral in our war with Japan. Roosevelt had, at Teheran, raised the issue of Russian participation but had not accomplished it. MacArthur's attitude was that if the strategy of starvation of Japan were pursued, it would be of no advantage to the United States for Soviet Russia to come in. He feared Russia's demands upon China—a fear that was subsequently justified by the facts.

That Japan was starved into submission is an established historic fact, fully documented at the Tokyo trials Even before the atom bomb was hurled at Hiroshima, Japan was a broken nation. My own information from Japanese friends of long standing makes this clear. As long as Japan had food, she could fight. She collapsed with 3,000,000 uncommitted troops because her food was unavailable.

Yet, Dean Acheson, in his defense of Yalta, makes the point that in February 1945, Roosevelt was forced to make the enormous concessions he did make to Soviet Russia with regard to China, Manchuria and Korea because he was so anxious to get Russia into the Far Eastern war; he was uncertain of victory: the atom bomb was not yet a success.

It is beyond understanding that Roosevelt, in February 1945, was oblivious to the great success that MacArthur and Nimitz had already achieved in the Pacific. The Philippines had been invaded and the First Cavalry and other forces were already in Manila. Shipping off the China coast was being bombed by our planes. The conquest of Japan by starvation, explained to Roosevelt at Honolulu in 1944, was actually becoming effective.

Roosevelt could not have been so pessimistic that he could have believed that it was necessary to give Russia a free hand in China, Manchuria and Northern Korea.

Besides, for this enormous compensation, Russia agreed to come into the Far Eastern war, three months after the Germans were defeated. It must have been clear on February 11, 1945, to anyone who could calculate, that three months after Germany was defeated, in view of what was already happening to Japan, the Japanese would not be able to stand against the additional power that would be freed for Pacific warfare. Up to that time, the Pacific area had had only a small fraction of our power.

No discussion of Yalta by those who were present at that conference, thus far, explains Roosevelt's generosity to Stalin. Nor why he violated his own principles as stated in the Atlantic Charter by transferring territory from one country to another without the consent of the deprived country.

Acheson's explanation that China consented is adroit but untrue. The documentation of the case proves otherwise. What is true is that Roosevelt undertook to get Chiang Kai-shek to agree to the terms arranged at Yalta. This is included in the Yalta agreement and I quoted the text of it in a recent article. Chiang was in no condition to flout Roosevelt at that time.

T. V. Soong, on June 30, 1945, was in Moscow. He conferred with Stalin. A treaty of friendship was ratified (August 24, 1945) to respect each other's sovereignty and territorial integrity. The Russian government pledged itself not to interfere in the internal affairs of China. The two countries agreed to mutual aid against any future Japanese aggression. The treaty was to last 30 years. Soviet Russia was violating the treaty while it was being signed.

It is beyond understanding that Dean Acheson did not discuss these matters precisely as they occurred. Maybe, they were not called to his attention or he was not questioned about them. I have tried to read the 2,000,000 words of testimony; yet I did not find these pertinent facts.

That Body of Yours

TREATMENT OF HEMORRHOIDS

One of the meanest ailments that afflicts mankind is hemorrhoids, or piles as they are popularly called. Although hemorrhoids are only varicose veins, they are so situated that, while painful practically at all times, they are especially so when and after a bowel movement occurs.

Hemorrhoids are caused by any pressure on this region, but constipation due to a sluggish liver is the commonest cause.

Overweight is another cause.

Because sufferers hear of the different forms of treatment—removal by surgery or injections, use of ointment and drugs to shrink the hemorrhoids—they are at a loss as to which is the best method of treatment.

Physicians and surgeons are in general agreement as to the best method of treatment. Treatment depends on first, the location of the hemorrhoids, that is, whether or not they are low down in the last few inches of the bowel and come out through the opening on the surrounding skin. These hemorrhoids that come out are called external hemorrhoids. Internal hemorrhoids are those placed up in the bowel, several inches above the opening and do not come out.

In American Practitioner, Dr. Emil Granet, New York city, states that external swollen hemorrhoids, when small, can usually be treated by the patient himself by applicaton of witch hazel and water dressings. While he does not recommend ointment or suppositories, most patients get considerable relief from suppositories which relieve pain and help shrink the hemeorrhoids.

If the hemorrhoid or hemorrhoids are large and seen early, they can be removed by surgery, sometimes in the surgeon's office. Most of these cases, however, enter hospital for a few days or a week.

In the case of internal hemorrhoids, many of these cases get along without treatment, as the hemorrhoids never come out. The general treatment of internal hemorrhoids where severe pain is present is injecting them with a solution which dries them up. They will then slough off. This treatment is usually given in the office of the surgeon who perhaps injects just one or two hemorrhoids every 5 to 7 days. This sort of treatment is a great boon to the patient as he loses no time from work, has no hospital fees and no need for an anaesthetic.

Liver and Gall Bladder

The liver does more different kinds of work than any other organ in the body. Anything that interferes with its work upsets all the body processes. The gall bladder also can cause many distressing symptoms. Both Cocked

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Big, balding Louey Johnson has taken his demise as secretary of defense with far better grace than most men who are bounced from the cabinet. Another who served in that post cracked up. Others have sulked or turned against the President.

Johnson, however, has not. In fact, he recently had a friendly talk with the man who fired him, Harry S. Truman—partly as a result of a radio broadcast.

For a time, the Republicans were confident they had Louey Johnson in their corner. They were especially jubilant when the MacArthur hearings started, for they counted on Johnson as a star witness against the administration. Supposedly it was all set for him to testify regarding his talks with MacArthur in Tokyo.

But when word to this effect was forecast on the air by this newscaster, Brig. Gen. Louis Renfrow who heard the broadcast and who was Johnson's assistant in the Defense Department, telephoned him.

"I just heard what Drew Pearson said, Louey," urged Renfrow, "and I don't want you to do anything until we can talk it over."

Next day they had lunch together.

"I've been your good friend and stuck by you," Renfrow said, "but we'll have to say good-bye if you start hitting the administration on this MacArthur issue. You stay out of it. You never had a real quarrel with Dean Acheson. It was only with some of his subordinates."

Johnson agreed.

"Will you phone Drew and tell him that?" Renfrow asked. Johnson agreed to call and did so.

Renfrow then went to the President, told him of the conversation and the President immediately phoned Johnson to thank him. They had a pleasant talk, the first since Louey left the cabinet.

Missouri Friendships Don't Fade

Eastern senators are up in arms over the proposed appointment of a new Interstate Commerce Commissioner from Missouri. Since the ICC has the important power of regulating the nation's railroads, a group of senators have introduced a resolution requiring ICC commissioners to be appointed regionally. This is aimed to prevent the Missouri appointment and to secure the appointment of Robert R. Hendon of Maryland, not Missouri.

The Missourian whom President Truman proposes to appoint is Ray Karst, ex-congressman from St. Louis.

What the protesting senators don't know is the inside reason why he has Truman's support. Karst's mother happens to be one of the first political leaders in St. Louis to come out for Truman in 1934 when he was elected to the Senate. Some years later, when Karst was in Congress, he brought his 75-year-old mother in to see the President.

"If it hadn't been for you and a few other loyal supporters in St. Louis," Truman told Mrs. Karst, "I wouldn't be where I am today."

And he gave the congressman's children, Mary Jane, 9, and Ronnie, 7, each a shiny new ball-point pencil with the admonition: "Don't let any FBI men see you with the pencils. They might put you in jail." The saucer-eyed youngsters quickly hid the pencils. They were inscribed: "I swiped this from Harry S. Truman."

Last year, Congressman Karst was defeated for re-election. And the other day, hearing that someone else was to be appointed to the Interstate Commerce Commission, he dropped round to the White House, told the President that he was out of a job, and got a job which made his eyes shine like those of his two children.

Hendon, the Marylander slated for the job, had the potent support of Senator Bob Kerr of Oklahoma; also of Senate Majority Leader McFarland, who attended the University of Oklahoma with Hendon. Hendon is also well-qualified, being a current member of the Defense Transportation Administration.

With Harry Truman, however, old friendships do not die. They don't even fade away.

Lobbying Under the Dome

There's plenty of lobbying going on in the cocktail lounges and hotels of Washington. However, it isn't often that the lobbyists are able to influence congressmen right under the Capitol Dome in the private dining room of ex-Speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts.

Yet that was the amazing feat pulled off recently by popular Congressman Boykin of Mobile, Ala.

Boykin is an amazing, storybook character whose motto is "everything is made for love," and who carries the love motif so far that he holds learned discussions on the love life of animals. In fact, that was the excuse for his recent lobbying luncheon. Members of the fisheries and wildlife committee were invited by Boykin to attend a lunch which Boykin said was to refute Congressman Howard Smith of Virginia who had made a derogatory speech about the "Love Life of the Racoon."

In defense of the raccoon and in order to show that coon meat was good to eat, Boykin invited members of the fisheries and wildlife committee to lunch—at first in the private dining room of Speaker Sam Rayburn, Democrat. At the last minute, however, it was switched to the private dining room of Joe Martin, Republican.

There, members of the fisheries and wildlife committee met eight gentlemen who were not congressmen at all, but representatives of the paper industry—St. Regis, Kraft, Union Bag and other companies. After lunch the paper executives took out some charts and started to lobby against CMR or "controlled materials regulation" of the Office of Price Stabilization.

Some of the congressmen present were flabbergasted at this attempt to influence their vote at a luncheon in the dining room of the ex-speaker of the House of Representatives. They would have been even more flabbergasted, however, had they known that their genial colleague from Alabama and his four children have a large chunk of stock in the Mobile Paper Company and that they had acquired this stock after Boykin's office had been used to get a $750,000 loan from the RFC.

Discovery of the unusual loan transaction by new RFC Director Stuart Symington caused him to demand the resignation of Congressman Boykin's cousin, Frank Prince, the RFC official who handled the Mobile Paper Company loan.

U. S. Would Probe American Support, While Professing Its Own Backing of Nationalists

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 12—Moral support is more important than material support in maintaining a government that is being subjected to Communist infiltration.

This statement by General Wedemeyer, as to the reason why he thought the Nationalist government in China was being steadily undermined in post-war years by the confusing and wavering policies of the Department of State, has particular relevancy at this very moment.

For, strangely enough, the administration, although professing to be the supporter of the Chinese Nationalist government, has just notified the world that it wants to investigate the activities of American citizens and groups which are supporting the Nationalist government of China.

Up to now Secretary of State Acheson, on the witness stand at the Senate hearings, had been most careful not to say anything that could in the slightest degree be interpreted as unfriendly or offensive to any government in alliance with the United States. But the Nationalist government, which is an ally and which is the legally recognized government of China so far as the United States is concerned, is now to be brought under official suspicion. This is worth a good deal to Communist China.

When Mr. Acheson testified, first he was cautious and objective about the rumors that there was such a thing as a "China lobby." He said it was all "hearsay" to him. Then something happened. The next day the secretary volunteered to the Senate committee that the President had authorized him to say that all the executive departments and agencies would be instructed to cooperate in any inquiry Congress might make into the so-called "China lobby." What had been the suggestion of one member of Congress became a presidential policy.

This coincided with a tirade of abuse of the Nationalist government from "left wing" sources which have steadily been seeking to get the President to abandon the Nationalist government, accept the Communist regime and give them recognition and a seat in the U.N.

Just why Mr. Truman allowed himself to be entrapped in what is a public repudiation of the Nationalist government is difficult to understand. For indeed it will be so regarded throughout the world, especially in the Far East. Where else did the critics say the money was coming from to carry on the "China lobby" except from the Nationalist government of China?

The eagerness with which the idea of an investigation was grabbed by the "left wing" here was significant, as was the repetition of the old charges about how corrupt the Chinese Nationalist government is supposed to be.

General Wedemeyer, who knows the China problem intimately, has just testified that, while he denounced corruption and told the Nationalist government from time to time about its weaknesses, he thought this aspect had been overemphasized and that there was some corruption in every government in the world.

While congressional committees naturally have the right and should, of course, inquire into any improper influence which may be exerted, either through lobbies or otherwise, to shape American policy, it was unfortunate that those who championed the idea of the investigation did not originally make it broad enough to include all lobbies. As it was, the news went out to the Far East that the Chinese Nationalist government was conducting a lobby and that President Truman evidently believed that what the Nationalist government was doing to express itself was in some way wrong and illegal and should be investigated.

It was natural that those who resented this as an attempt to undermine the prestige of the Nationalist government should immediately counter with a move to investigate the "Communist Lobby." But, such tactics and counter-tactics on Capitol Hill are not in themselves controlling influences. What is important is that the President and the secretary of state should not, by their published announcement, leave the impression that the support America now is giving to the Nationalist government is perfunctory and insincere. Are efforts once more to be launched from the highest official sources to undermine and weaken the Nationalist government before the Court of American public opinion? That's the way China was lost before. It is regrettable that the "smear" apparently has been revived under the aegis of the President and the secretary of state.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Having recently read my betters a couple of lectures on the duties of our free press, I request permission to amend those commentaries by some endearing observations. The Tampa Morning Tribune and the Miami Herald have fought bravely and with some success against evils in their purview and even beyond, and have maintained the tradition of the crusading press even though Red Newton, the managing editor of the Tribune, dislikes the word "crusade" in this sense because, he says, "it perhaps hints of the sensational."

My dictionary says "sensational" means "suited or intended to excite great interest or emotion; melodramatic; emotional," and it has seemed to me that his campaigns against a local politico-criminal gambling mob have excited great interest and emotion as a requisite of their success. Moreover, I well remember that when Major Frederick Palmer, the chief censor of the A.E.F., admonished the small press corps who had just paid their first visit to the first American sector of the western front in 1916, that their stories must not be sensational, Bobby Small, of the A.P., a stylish little fellow with a sharp tongue, exclaimed "good Gawd A'Mighty, this is the most sensational story since Fort Sumter!"

The Miami Herald, under the ownership of John S. Knight, has changed for the better, but I distinctly recall a time when the Herald was not merely apathetic toward outrageous conditions which were building into the scandals of recent times, but resented intrusions into its local sphere by ink-stained wretches from the vast outside who happened along with the fighters and ball-clubs and wrote what they heard and saw. I regret that I am not well-enough informed on the details of the Herald's crusades to name the heroes who have done the digging and taken the chances but, in brief, the Herald observed that Miami was destined to become a great international port for both airborne and seaborne commerce and already had become, by bribery, neglect and tolerance, the hibernating place of an element which Edgar Hoover described as the criminal scum. Union racketeers were closing in and the mainland and the beach were peopled almost altogether by strangers who knew not one another and were bashful about speaking up.

In sports one came to know the gamblers and thugs from the rogue cities of the north and midwest and even if the Herald in those days was honestly uninformed it should have paid attention and done its job instead of objecting to the revelations of dirt on its doorstep. The haunts of luxury were over-run with bums of great renown who went right into action and soon took over. There was some excuse for indifference or disbelief in union matters, for, to this very day, many papers elsewhere maintain a strong resistance to information proving the fundamental conflict between these bad societies and good government. The Herald since has seen its duty and done it, however, fighting both

The Inhabited Bridge

For 399 years (from 1387 to 1786) thirty large apartment houses stood in two lanes upon the Pont St. Michel (Bridge of St. Michael) across the Seine in Paris. More people have lived upon this bridge longer than on any bridge in history. A street called Rue de Hurepoix actually ran in the middle of the bridge.

Extra Benefits For Unemployed

A. C. Hart, manager of the Kingston office of the State Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance today reminded persons who are unemployed this month to check their benefit rights carefully with the local insurance office.

Explaining that revisions in the Unemployment Insurance Law which went into effect on June 4 have changed the previous benefit system, Hart stressed two important points for persons out of work in June to keep in mind:

1. Unemployed persons who have already received the maximum of 26 payments since last June may be entitled to as many as two more checks this month.

2. Unemployed persons who are not entitled to benefits this month because of insufficient earnings in 1949, may be eligible for benefits starting July 2 if they file a claim right now.

"If your 1950 earnings were enough to qualify you under the old law formula," he said, "you can file any time between now and June 30 in order to set up a new benefit year on July 2. It is only necessary to show that you are unemployed through no fault of your own. and to serve a complete waiting period by the end of the month.

"Then, if you are still out of work on July 2, or at any time for a year after that date, you can start receiving benefits immediately."

Hart also reminded workers that they must have a record of employment slip for every insured job since July 1, 1950.

"We will have to send you back for these slips if you come in without them," the manager said. "They are necessary for quick processing of your claim. Remember, your employer is required to give you a record of employment slip when you leave a job, and you are required to turn in your slips from previous jobs if you apply for unemployment insurance."

Wheat Bill Goes To President's Desk

Washington, June 12 (AP)—A bill to furnish $190,000,000 worth of U. S. grain to India on a loan basis was sent to President Truman by the Senate yesterday.

The President asked in February that 2,000,000 tons of food be sent to the hungry in India as a gift but Congress changed it to a loan, contending this was what India asked.

Economic Cooperation Administration officials have estimated the grain can be on the seas 10 days after Mr. Truman signs the bill.

Congress directed ECA to try to get part repayment in strategic materials in negotiating the long-term loan with India. This was left on a permissive basis, however.

The Senate approved by voice vote the final bill, a compromise between Senate and House versions.

More Jitters for Iran

Iranian army sources report an unprecedented number of Russian troops, tanks, artillery and planes maneuvering on both sides of the Caspian Sea, close to Iran's northern border. This increases tension caused by Iran's internal strife and her clash with Great Britain over nationalization of oil lands. Russians are close to border of Azerbaijan province, containing more than a million pro-Communists indoctrinated by Russians when they occupied Azerbaijan until forced out by the UN in 1946. Diplomats see danger of a Russian-inspired and supported "spontaneous revolt" to separate the province from Iran's national government, laying the groundwork for "another Korea" in Iran. Lower map shows Azerbaijan's strategic position in the Middle East, flanking Turkey.

June 30 Last for Vets To Get Their Autos

Saturday, June 30 is the deadline under existing law for disabled World War 2 veterans who may be entitled to government financial aid in acquiring an automobile or other conveyance to submit their applications, according to a reminder issued today by John E. Delehanty, in charge of the Kingston Veterans Administration office.

Delehanty explained that the law provides for VA to pay up to $1,600 towards the purchase of a car, truck, tractor or other automotive conveyance for a World War 2 veteran who lost the use of one or both legs at or above the ankle due to military service.

While the Veterans Administration is going to do everything possible to adjudicate all claims received on or before June 30, Delehanty advised eligible veterans to submit their applications as early as possible to be on the safe side. He also pointed out that the deadline date falls on a Saturday when VA offices are closed.

Application blanks are available at VA regional offices. Veterans in this area should return the completed forms to the VA regional office at Albany.

TB Service Group To Meet Tonight

An organization meeting for a Tuberculosis Patients Service Committee has been called for this evening at 7:30 in the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital.

This committee of representatives from various community service organizations in Ulster county is being formed at the suggestion of Dr. Joseph Jacobson, medical director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital. It will operate as a sub-committee of the Ulster County TB and Health Association. Its purpose is to learn more about the Ulster county hospital, the patients and their needs. Such a voluntary group working with the medical director and staff can aid considerably in planning for a patients' program, both recreational and extra-curricula; thus making the stay of the patient at the hospital a more pleasant and comfortable one.

Funds from the 1950 Christmas Seal Sale with two private grants have been added to the Joseph M. Fowler Memorial Fund and will be placed at the disposal of the service committee for this rehabilitation program. Harry S. Ensign, president of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, has appointed Edmund P. Rochford to serve as chairman of the group.

Newsprint Is Boosted

Fort Frances, Ont., June 12 (AP)—The Ontario-Minnesota Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd. yesterday announced an increase of $10 a ton in the price of standard newsprint. The increase is effective July 1. Several other Canadian companies previously announced similar increases to bring the domestic price to $114 a ton and $116 in New York. With the 10-per-cent sales tax, the actual Canadian price will be about $124 a ton.

The meeting was replete with data of interest to scouts and parents alike and was considered very successful. Refreshments were served.

Midwest Gets Moscow

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Radio Moscow is currently throwing a much stronger propaganda voice into the midwestern United States. Officials speculated today that the power of its overseas transmitters have been stepped up in a further effort by Russia to gets its "message" to Americans. The number of English-language broadcasts beamed to this country has been virtually doubled during the last six months. So strong was the Soviet signal at times last week that some short-wave listeners in Des Moines, Iowa, got the impression a U. S. station was rebroadcasting the radio Moscow programs.

The average retail price of wheat flour jumped from 3.8 cents per pound in 1939 to 10.1 cents per pound in 1948.

Elks to Observe Flag Day June 14

Kingston Lodge, 550, B. P. O. Elks, will observe Flag Day with special ceremonies on Thursday at 9 p. m., following the regular meeting of the organization at its club on Fair street.

Attorney Sherwood E. Davis, director of civilian defense for the city of Kingston, and president of Ulster County Chapter, Reserve Officers Association, will be the speaker.

The program will be open for public attendance it was announced today by Ernest A. Steuding, chairman on arrangements.

Surprise Is Pulled

West Los Angeles, June 12 (AP)—Hedy Lamarr and night club operator Ernest (Ted) Stauffer, pulling a surprise on Hollywood, were married late last night at the home of Superior Judge Stanley Mosk, who performed the ceremony. It was the fourth marriage for the Austrian-born actress and the second for Stauffer, onetime bandleader. Both were divorced in 1947, she from actor John Loder and he from actress Faith Domergue.

Search Is Abandoned

Frankfurt, Germany, June 12 (AP)—The U. S. Air Force last night abandoned its three-day search for two U. S. jet fighters feared to have crashed somewhere in Communist Europe. The hunt was called off after long range planes and helicopters had combed western Germany along the Iron Curtain border in a vain quest for the two F-84 Thunderjets which vanished Friday. An air force spokesman said if the jets had gone down in the western zones, the air force undoubtedly would have received word by now. He added the disappearance has been reported to the Soviet air controller in Berlin.

China, France, Britain, the U. S. and Russia hold veto power in the U.N.

Extra Benefits For Unemployed

A. C. Hart, manager of the Kingston office of the State Division of Placement and Unemployment Insurance today reminded persons who are unemployed this month to check their benefit rights carefully with the local insurance office.

Explaining that revisions in the Unemployment Insurance Law which went into effect on June 4 have changed the previous benefit system, Hart stressed two important points for persons out of work in June to keep in mind:

1. Unemployed persons who have already received the maximum of 26 payments since last June may be entitled to as many as two more checks this month.

2. Unemployed persons who are not entitled to benefits this month because of insufficient earnings in 1949, may be eligible for benefits starting July 2 if they file a claim right now.

"If your 1950 earnings were enough to qualify you under the old law formula," he said, "you can file any time between now and June 30 in order to set up a new benefit year on July 2. It is only necessary to show that you are unemployed through no fault of your own, and to serve a complete waiting period by the end of the month.

"Then, if you are still out of work on July 2, or at any time for a year after that date, you can start receiving benefits immediately."

Hart also reminded workers that they must have a record of employment slip for every insured job since July 1, 1950.

"We will have to send you back for these slips if you come in without them," the manager said. "They are necessary for quick processing of your claim. Remember, your employer is required to give you a record of employment slip when you leave a job, and you are required to turn in your slips from previous jobs if you apply for unemployment insurance."

Wheat Bill Goes To President's Desk

Washington, June 12 (AP)—A bill to furnish $190,000,000 worth of U. S. grain to India on a loan basis was sent to President Truman by the Senate yesterday.

The President asked in February that 2,000,000 tons of food be sent to the hungry in India as a gift but Congress changed it to a loan, contending this was what India asked.

Economic Cooperation Administration officials have estimated the grain can be on the seas 10 days after Mr. Truman signs the bill.

Congress directed ECA to try to get part repayment in strategic materials in negotiating the long-term loan with India. This was left on a permissive basis, however.

The Senate approved by voice vote the final bill, a compromise between Senate and House versions.

The invention of guns is said to date from the first quarter of the 14th century, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

More Jitters for Iran

Iranian army sources report an unprecedented number of Russian troops, tanks, artillery and planes maneuvering on both sides of the Caspian Sea, close to Iran's northern border. This increases tension caused by Iran's internal strife and her clash with Great Britain over nationalization of oil lands. Russians are close to border of Azerbaijan province, containing more than a million pro-Communists indoctrinated by Russians when they occupied Azerbaijan until forced out by the UN in 1946. Diplomats see danger of a Russian-inspired and supported "spontaneous revolt" to separate the province from Iran's national government, laying the groundwork for "another Korea" in Iran. Lower map shows Azerbaijan's strategic position in the Middle East, flanking Turkey.

June 30 Last for Vets To Get Their Autos

Saturday, June 30 is the deadline under existing law for disabled World War 2 veterans who may be entitled to government financial aid in acquiring an automobile or other conveyance to submit their applications, according to a reminder issued today by John E. Delehanty, in charge of the Kingston Veterans Administration office.

Delehanty explained that the law provides for VA to pay up to $1,600 towards the purchase of a car, truck, tractor or other automotive conveyance for a World War 2 veteran who lost the use of one or both legs at or above the ankle due to military service.

While the Veterans Administration is going to do everything possible to adjudicate all claims received on or before June 30, Delehanty advised eligible veterans to submit their applications as early as possible to be on the safe side. He also pointed out that the deadline date falls on a Saturday when VA offices are closed.

Application blanks are available at VA regional offices. Veterans in this area should return the completed forms to the VA regional office at Albany.

TB Service Group To Meet Tonight

An organization meeting for a Tuberculosis Patients Service Committee has been called for this evening at 7:30 in the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital.

This committee of representatives from various community service organizations in Ulster county is being formed at the suggestion of Dr. Joseph Jacobson, medical director of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital. It will operate as a sub-committee of the Ulster County TB and Health Association. Its purpose is to learn more about the Ulster county hospital, the patients and their needs. Such a voluntary group working with the medical director and staff can aid considerably in planning for a patients' program, both recreational and extra-curricula; thus making the stay of the patient at the hospital a more pleasant and comfortable one.

Funds from the 1950 Christmas Seal Sale with two private grants have been added to the Joseph M. Fowler Memorial Fund and will be placed at the disposal of the service committee for this rehabilitation program. Harry S. Ensign, president of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, has appointed Edmund P. Rochford to serve as chairman of the group.

Newsprint Is Boosted

Fort Frances, Ont., June 12 (AP)—The Ontario-Minnesota Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd. yesterday announced an increase of $10 a ton in the price of standard newsprint. The increase is effective July 1. Several other Canadian companies previously announced similar increases to bring the domestic price to $114 a ton and $116 in New York. With the 10-per-cent sales tax, the actual Canadian price will be about $124 a ton.

The reward of thrift for the man who has paid his own way during his active life and put aside what he hoped would be enough to provide his own old age pension is the inflation forced upon him by governmental extravagance. His depreciated dollars not only do not give him the security for which he has toiled, but a levy is also made upon them to provide for the thriftless.

Norwich Council gained 51 members during the past year, to show a percentage gain of 196.1 per cent, highest percentage gain in the entire United States. This was the first time that a local council won both trophies. During the Grand Council convention in this city last week, Charles Lawrence of Troy was elected Grand Counselor, highest state office in the fraternal order. He was installed by proxy during a ceremony Saturday morning. The acceptance speech was given by A. John Snyder, also of Troy, for Lawrence, who was ill in his hotel room here. Do You Remember by

By SOPHIE MILLER

I wonder how many folks remember the famous Dollar Ingersol wrist watch and pocket watch. I saw among some of my father's old invoices. Folks didn't grab them, they thought they would always be here. Then came the wars, and clocks and watches went up to stay up. All through high school, I had a dollar Ingersol. It was big and clumsy but it kept good time.

Here are some items of the local press of January 14, 1886. One tells about the freshet in the Esopus Creek. The eye-witness told The Freeman reporter at the time, "I remember well about 30 years ago. (That would make it around 1856). A big freshet in the Esopus that washed everything down the Hudson. A German, only a short time in this country, and newly married, bought a farm over the bridge. This was in the spring. In the fall of the same year came a freshet. The whole region was covered with water, and the German's house was surrounded. It ran through the building, and was getting higher and higher.

"What to do to save his wife. At last an idea came to him. He got out a big wash tub and put his wife in it. He then 'Hallooed!" for a boat and a neighbor soon came paddling over. Arriving there the German climbed in the boat and told his friend to row. He then grabbed hold of the tub and with his wife in it held on while they rowed to dry land. In the excitement they didn't think about putting the wife in the boat. When the freshet subsided the husband removed his household goods from the house and sold the property for $300. Thirty years later, in 1886, he was a well to do citizen of Kingston City," the article concluded. Since we still have freshets or floods as we call them now which rival even those days, perhaps the above idea may be useful even today. What do you think?

One of the ads in the 1886 Freeman which you seldom see today read: "To Blacksmiths. I have a shop for general work that I will rent on most favorable terms to a steady, industrious man. No one need apply unless thoroughly acquainted with shoeing horses and cattle, and the making and tempering of quarry tools. Immediate possession given. John Deming, Millville Depot, Pike County, Penn."

With the Board of Education in the news now at the summer vacation period, I see in H. L. Van Deusen's column "At Century's Turn," that back in May of 1909, the Board of Education reduced the salary of Principal Myron J. Michael of old Kingston Academy from $2,500 to $2,000 in order to conform with the salary paid Principal Schuyler Fox of old Ulster Academy. The board's action led to a strike among the students of Kingston Academy on June 1, when a large group of boys marched out of the school. According to a report of a May 28, 1909, meeting, some of the members expressed themselves freely that the reason for cutting Michael's salary was due entirely to the fact that they believed he should be paid the same amount as the principal of the downtown academy was receiving. Perhaps some readers remember this incident well.

Korea became a trusteeship of the U.N. by the formal terms of surrender for Japan in September, 1945.

Former Resident In Korean Action

LT. JOHN COLBORN

First Lieutenant John A. Colborn, former Kingston resident, is serving in Korea with General Almond's famed Tenth Corps. Lt. Colborn, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Colborn of Kingston, made the invasion at Inchon last September and has taken part in the many engagements to which X Corps has been committed.

As radio and message center officer of the Advance Corps Command Post, he was trapped with his men at Hagaru-ri along with units of the 1st Marine Division. During the 14 days and nights that the Communists tried to annihilate the forces at the Chosin Reservoir, Lt. Colborn, in addition to maintaining contact with Corps Headquarters, led his men with such skill and determination in defense of his positions, that they repulsed wave after wave of the Red attackers. By his skill and knowledge of infantry tactics, the Signal officer managed to make the final withdrawal from the reservoir with only light casualties. Though he was wounded himself, he carried a wounded Marine over 350 yards of exposed ground to safety and dressed his wounds. The lieutenant's own corpsman did not know that he had been wounded until days later when he reported back at headquarters.

By his dramatic action, he earned the respect of his men as well as of the Marines who named a frozen, bloody ridge "Communicators Hill" in honor of the signalmen who had so nobly defended it. In addition, he was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with "Vee" device for his heroic action and cited in General Almond's order "for leadership and action above and beyond the call of duty and by repeated risk to his personal safety.

Lt. Colborn, known to many Kingston residents as John Gerlach, attended Schools 6 and 7 and Myron J. Michael where he was a member of the Leaders Club for two years. He also held office as president of the Youth Fellowship of the Fair Street Reformed Church, of which he is still a member.

After moving from Kingston, he attended high school in New Rochelle from which he entered the navy. In the navy Lt. Colborn served as radio operator and air-gunner after winning his wings at Jacksonville Naval Air Station. After his discharge in 1946, he entered college in San Bernardino, Calif., and later Northwestern Radio and Television Institute in St. Paul, Minn., where he majored in radio electronics.

Re-entering the service in 1948, he was assigned to the Southeastern Signal School at Camp Gorden, Ga., as an instructor in the radio branch. Appointed to OCS in September 1949, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Signal Corps in March 1950, and received his promotion shortly after the Inchon invasion.

Lt. Colborn is presently assigned to Headquarters & Headquarters Company, 4th Signal Battalion, X Corps and is serving as photographic officer. He has photographed such personages as Gen. Almond, Corps Commander, Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, Commander UN Naval Forces, and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme commander of UN Forces in the Far East in addition to many combat scenes.

His wife, the former Helen Louise Janssen of California, is now residing at 16 Melrose Terrace, Long Branch, N. J., with their son, Terry Lon, age 3, and daughter, Carol Lynn, age 1½.

Can You Spot Declarer's Error?

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Hard luck," said South. Everybody nodded sympathetically, so I kept quiet. I've discovered that nobody thanks me for pointing out his errors.

West opened the ten of clubs and South won with the ace. He drew two rounds of trumps and then overtook the queen of clubs with the dummy's king in order to discard a diamond on the jack of clubs.

Declarer then entered his hand with the ace of diamonds to lead a heart towards dummy. When West played low, declarer hopefully finessed dummy's ten.

East quickly took the jack of hearts, cashed the king of hearts, and then began on the diamonds. South could ruff the third round of diamonds but still had to lose a third heart trick. Hence he sighed about his luck as he entered 100 points on the enemy's side of the score pad.

Have you spotted South's error? You should be able to prove that hard luck was not responsible for South's defeat.

Declarer was on the right track in winning the first trick, drawing trumps, and running the clubs to discard a diamond. He was still all right when he led to the ace of diamonds. But he plunged off the deep end when he then led a heart.

Correct play is to lead a second diamond at once. There is time later on to lead the hearts.

If diamonds are led again, East must win and continue the suit. South ruffs the third diamond and then is the time for the heart lead.

Declarer neither gains nor loses if the finesse of the heart ten succeeds. If that finesse loses to the jack, however, South has an extra chance that East may have ace-jack or king-jack alone.

This actually is the case. East can take two heart tricks but must then return a diamond or a club. In either case dummy ruffs while South discards his last losing heart.

Former Resident In Korean Action

LT. JOHN COLBORN

First Lieutenant John A. Colborn, former Kingston resident, is serving in Korea with General Almond's famed Tenth Corps. Lt. Colborn, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Colborn of Kingston, made the invasion at Inchon last September and has taken part in the many engagements to which X Corps has been committed.

As radio and message center officer of the Advance Corps Command Post, he was trapped with his men at Hagaru-ri along with units of the 1st Marine Division. During the 14 days and nights that the Communists tried to annihilate the forces at the Chosin Reservoir, Lt. Colborn, in addition to maintaining contact with Corps Headquarters, led his men with such skill and determination in defense of his positions, that they repulsed wave after wave of the Red attackers. By his skill and knowledge of infantry tactics, the Signal officer managed to make the final withdrawal from the reservoir with only light casualties. Though he was wounded himself, he carried a wounded Marine over 350 yards of exposed ground to safety and dressed his wounds. The lieutenant's own corpsman did not know that he had been wounded until days later when he reported back at headquarters.

By his dramatic action, he earned the respect of his men as well as of the Marines who named a frozen, bloody ridge "Communicators Hill" in honor of the signalmen who had so nobly defended it. In addition, he was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with "Vee" device for his heroic action and cited in General Almond's order "for leadership and action above and beyond the call of duty and by repeated risk to his personal safety.

Lt. Colborn, known to many Kingston residents as John Gerlach, attended Schools 6 and 7 and Myron J. Michael where he was a member of the Leaders Club for two years. He also held office as president of the Youth Fellowship of the Fair Street Reformed Church, of which he is still a member.

After moving from Kingston, he attended high school in New Rochelle from which he entered the navy. In the navy Lt. Colborn served as radio operator and air-gunner after winning his wings at Jacksonville Naval Air Station. After his discharge in 1946, he entered college in San Bernardino, Calif., and later Northwestern Radio and Television Institute in St. Paul, Minn., where he majored in radio electronics.

Re-entering the service in 1948, he was assigned to the Southeastern Signal School at Camp Gorden, Ga., as an instructor in the radio branch. Appointed to OCS in September 1949, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Signal Corps in March 1950, and received his promotion shortly after the Inchon invasion.

Lt. Colborn is presently assigned to Headquarters & Headquarters Company, 4th Signal Battalion, X Corps and is serving as photographic officer. He has photographed such personages as Gen. Almond, Corps Commander, Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy, Commander UN Naval Forces, and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme commander of UN Forces in the Far East in addition to many combat scenes.

His wife, the former Helen Louise Janssen of California, is now residing at 16 Melrose Terrace, Long Branch, N. J., with their son, Terry Lon, age 3, and daughter, Carol Lynn, age 1½.

He now holds five decorations in addition to the Bronze Star, among them the Purple Heart, the Commendation Ribbon and Korean Campaign Medal with three battle stars and a bronze arrowhead.

Tests Are Made In Woman's Death

Pleasantville, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Further chemical tests are being made in the death of Mrs. Lena Wilson Stillman, 41, the Canadian backwoods girl who became "as chic and well-poised as any Park avenue matron."

Westchester County Medical Examiner David M. Spain says he is making toxicology tests and that the results may be known today or tomorrow.

After a partial autopsy yesterday, Spain said "no obvious" cause of death was found.

Mrs. Stillman's widower, James, is an obstetrician and son of the late James A. Stillman, one-time president and chairman of the board of the National City Bank.

Discovered Sunday

Her body was discovered Sunday in bed at her home here.

The Stillmans' marriage in 1927 shocked New York society, but the Canadian girl later gained a firm place in the Park avenue set.

Before her marriage, Stillman said "she can cook, ride a horse, fish, tramp and do outdoor things of a sort, but she cannot dance, except square dances, nor drink or smoke, or any of those things—and I am extremely glad of it."

His father and mother, now Mrs. Fowler McCormick, stirred society earlier in the 20s with a headline-making divorce.

The elder Stillman accused his wife of an affair with Fred Beauvais, a Quebec Indian guide, and questioned the legitimacy of her fourth child, Guy.

In turn she accused him of improper relations with Florence Leeds, a former chorus girl. She said he fathered Miss Leeds' son.

A verdict found Stillman guilty of adultery and cleared his wife of all charges.

Gets Dad Jail Sentence

Mount Savage, Md., June 12 (AP)—A stubborn 17-year-old ninth grade student who insisted on wearing a Nazi swastika in the classroom paved the way for a 30-day jail sentence for his father, Charles A. Swauger of Frostburg, Md., was put under $250 bond yesterday awaiting Circuit Court action on his appeal. He was convicted of assaulting J. Orville Kefauver, principal of the Mount Savage Junior High School.

Brownies Entertain Mothers; 'Fly Up'

At their final meeting of the season yesterday afternoon, members of Brownie Troop No. 72 of the Reformed Church of the Comforter entertained troop mothers and held "fly up" exercises.

Brownies receiving their wings included Judy Van Bramer, Gale Scholes, Melinda Rowe, Ethel Armstrong, and Barbara Maines.

A play, The Shoemaker and the Brownies, was also presented. Members of the cast were Ethel Armstrong, Barbara Maines, Linda Conlin, Judy Van Bramer, Ann Hallinan, Caroline Miller, Diane Markle, Melinda Rowe, and Gale Scholes. Brownies also presented their mothers with a gift while the troop committee served refreshments.

Another highlight of the meeting was a report of this year's troop activities under the leadership of Mrs. William Rowe and Mrs. Howard DeWitt. It was announced that the troop will have a miscellaneous booth at the church fair this week.

Will Receive Seal

Austin, Tex., June 12 (AP)—This capital of Texas will give Gen. Douglas MacArthur an engraved seal of the city and a rousing welcome when he starts his four-day visit of the state. But that's as far as they'll go. State Senator John Bell, chairman of the legislative arrangements committee, suggested to Mayor W. S. Drake, Jr., of Austin that perhaps Austin isn't trying to compete with "our richer neighbors." Houston, where he makes his second Texas appearance, has rolled out a Cadillac which will be given to him.

To Captain Winfield

The alarm rings in,
Time for the firemen to go for a spin.
The Dispatcher reaches out his hand
To sound the horn which sounds so grand.
A low beep, beep is all that's heard,
Hardly louder than a bird.

Captain Winfield makes a dive,
Into his car and out the drive.
He arrives at the station in plenty of time,
'Cause he can drive that car of his around on a dime.

His Voluntcer firemen have strained their ears
To hear the horn, for they have no fears.
They will be ready when duty calls
To put out the fire; no matter what falls.

The truck starts rolling; the siren sounds.
The neighbors sit back because they have found
Efficient A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company
Is dependable and their services are many.

All credit is due to this brave little band
Who travel all over throughout the land.
Through hill and dale, woods and field
Under the leadership of Captain Winfield.
Long may he live to wear his shield.

Whitfield Cemetery Project Completed

Work on clearing the Whitfield Cemetery has progressed satisfactorily, according to Stanley F. Kelder, president of the cemetery association, who has announced a supper to raise money for the project.

The supper will feature spaghetti and meat balls with strawberry shortcake as dessert and it is scheduled for Friday evening, June 15 at 6 p. m., in Mettacahonts Hall.

Clearing of the cemetery, which was overgrown with brush, started in May of 1950. The job has been completed, it is reported, and broken headstones have been repaired.

Records reveal that the first burial was 105 years ago, and descendants of the family are still living in the community.

Employment Drops

Albany, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—New York's non-agricultural employment in mid-April totaled 5,696,800, a drop of 16,800 from mid-March. Reporting this yesterday, Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi blamed seasonal declines in the apparel manufacturing and retail trade fields for the decrease.

Toy Makers to Put Prices Under Rule

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Price control officials told toy makers yesterday they almost certainly will be required to price toys under the general manufacturers regulation which would provide more price increases than rollbacks.

This would apply to those producers whose volume of business exceeds $250,000 a year.

The industry advisory committee asked the Office of Price Stabilization to allow toy manufacturers to continue to price under the lower levels of the general price freeze. They pointed out that switching to the manufacturers' regulation, which is effective July 2, would entitle them to a greater number of price increases than reductions compared with the general freeze.

The manufacturers said that even though they would be entitled to such increases, switching to the new regulation would cause price confusion within the industry. They said they wanted to avoid this.

The toy makers said that, generally speaking, between 50 and 60 per cent of the total volume of their business for this year will have been shipped at general price freeze levels or less by July 2. For that reason, they said the industry wants to stay under the general price freeze until a special tailored regulation can be written to cover their products.

The Baltic Sea covers an area of 163,000 square miles. Its greatest depth is 1,506 feet.

Stone Ridge Health Clinic Changed to 20th

The date of the child health conference at the health center in Stone Ridge has been changed from June 13 to June 20, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. In the future it will be held on the third Wednesday of each month.

These clinics are limited to infant and preschool children for the purpose of improving child health through early recognition of defects, advice regarding nutrition, instruction of parents in understanding of growth and development, handling of minor behavior difficulties and the administering of immunization for smallpox, diphtheria tetanus and whooping cough.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child.

Sawkill Minstrel Is Planned for St. Ann's

A minstrel show will be part of the activities at St. Ann's Church, Sawkill, commemorating the 35th anniversary of the Rev. James Dunnigan, pastor of the church there.

Announcement about the show was made today by a spokesman for the Christian Mothers' Association of St. Peter's Church, Kingston, which will sponsor the minstrel on June 17 at 8 p. m.

The committee on arrangements is making elaborate plans for the event which is expected to draw many from Kingston as well as from Sawkill and surrounding area.

Tests Are Made In Woman's Death

Pleasantville, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Further chemical tests are being made in the death of Mrs. Lena Wilson Stillman, 41, the Canadian backwoods girl who became "as chic and well-poised as any Park avenue matron."

Westchester County Medical Examiner David M. Spain says he is making toxicology tests and that the results may be known today or tomorrow.

After a partial autopsy yesterday, Spain said "no obvious" cause of death was found.

Mrs. Stillman's widower, James, is an obstetrician and son of the late James A. Stillman, one-time president and chairman of the board of the National City Bank.

Discovered Sunday

Her body was discovered Sunday in bed at her home here.

The Stillmans' marriage in 1927 shocked New York society, but the Canadian girl later gained a firm place in the Park avenue set.

Before her marriage, Stillman said "she can cook, ride a horse, fish, tramp and do outdoor things of a sort, but she cannot dance, except square dances, nor drink or smoke, or any of those things—and I am extremely glad of it."

His father and mother, now Mrs. Fowler McCormick, stirred society earlier in the 20s with a headline-making divorce.

The elder Stillman accused his wife of an affair with Fred Beauvais, a Quebec Indian guide, and questioned the legitimacy of her fourth child, Guy.

In turn she accused him of improper relations with Florence Leeds, a former chorus girl. She said he fathered Miss Leeds' son.

A verdict found Stillman guilty of adultery and cleared his wife of all charges.

Gets Dad Jail Sentence

Mount Savage, Md., June 12 (AP)—A stubborn 17-year-old ninth grade student who insisted on wearing a Nazi swastika in the classroom paved the way for a 30-day jail sentence for his father. Charles A. Swauger of Frostburg, Md., was put under $250 bond yesterday awaiting Circuit Court action on his appeal. He was convicted of assaulting J. Orville Kefauver, principal of the Mount Savage Junior High School.

Brownies Entertain Mothers; 'Fly Up'

At their final meeting of the season yesterday afternoon, members of Brownie Troop No. 72 of the Reformed Church of the Comforter entertained troop mothers and held "fly up" exercises.

Brownies receiving their wings included Judy Van Bramer, Gale Scholes, Melinda Rowe, Ethel Armstrong, and Barbara Maines.

A play, The Shoemaker and the Brownies, was also presented. Members of the cast were Ethel Armstrong, Barbara Maines, Linda Conlin, Judy Van Bramer, Ann Hallinan, Caroline Miller, Diane Markle, Melinda Rowe, and Gale Scholes. Brownies also presented their mothers with a gift while the troop committee served refreshments.

Another highlight of the meeting was a report of this year's troop activities under the leadership of Mrs. William Rowe and Mrs. Howard DeWitt. It was announced that the troop will have a miscellaneous booth at the church fair this week.

Will Receive Seal

Austin, Tex., June 12 (AP)—This capital of Texas will give Gen. Douglas MacArthur an engraved seal of the city and a rousing welcome when he starts his four-day visit of the state. But that's as far as they'll go. State Senator John Bell, chairman of the legislative arrangements committee, suggested to Mayor W. S. Drake, Jr., of Austin that perhaps Austin isn't trying to compete with "our richer neighbors." Houston, where he makes his second Texas appearance, has rolled out a Cadillac which will be given to him.

To Captain Winfield

The alarm rings in,
Time for the firemen to go for a spin.
The Dispatcher reaches out his hand
To sound the horn which sounds so grand.
A low beep, beep is all that's heard,
Hardly louder than a bird.

Captain Winfield makes a dive,
Into his car and out the drive.
He arrives at the station in plenty of time,
'Cause he can drive that car of his around on a dime.

His Volunteer firemen have strained their ears
To hear the horn, for they have no fears.
They will be ready when duty calls
To put out the fire; no matter what falls.

The truck starts rolling; the siren sounds.
The neighbors sit back because they have found
Efficient A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company
Is dependable and their services are many.

All credit is due to this brave little band
Who travel all over throughout the land,
Through hill and dale, woods and field
Under the leadership of Captain Winfield.
Long may he live to wear his shield.

Whitfield Cemetery Project Completed

Work on clearing the Whitfield Cemetery has progressed satisfactorily, according to Stanley F. Kelder, president of the cemetery association, who has announced a supper to raise money for the project.

The supper will feature spaghetti and meat balls with strawberry shortcake as dessert and it is scheduled for Friday evening, June 15 at 6 p. m., in Mettacahonts Hall.

Clearing of the cemetery, which was overgrown with brush, started in May of 1950. The job has been completed, it is reported, and broken headstones have been repaired.

Records reveal that the first burial was 105 years ago, and descendants of the family are still living in the community.

Employment Drops

Albany, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—New York's non-agricultural employment in mid-April totaled 5,696,800, a drop of 16,800 from mid-March. Reporting this yesterday, Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi blamed seasonal declines in the apparel manufacturing and retail trade fields for the decrease.

Toy Makers to Put Prices Under Rule

Washington, June 12 (AP)—Price control officials told toy makers yesterday they almost certainly will be required to price toys under the general manufacturers regulation which would provide more price increases than rollbacks.

This would apply to those producers whose volume of business exceeds $250,000 a year.

The industry advisory committee asked the Office of Price Stabilization to allow toy manufacturers to continue to price under the lower levels of the general price freeze. They pointed out that switching to the manufacturers' regulation, which is effective July 2, would entitle them to a greater number of price increases than reductions compared with the general freeze.

The manufacturers said that even though they would be entitled to such increases, switching to the new regulation would cause price confusion within the industry. They said they wanted to avoid this.

The toy makers said that, generally speaking, between 50 and 60 per cent of the total volume of their business for this year will have been shipped at general price freeze levels or less by July 2. For that reason, they said the industry wants to stay under the general price freeze until a special tailored regulation can be written to cover their products.

These are well child clinics for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child.

Sawkill Minstrel Is Planned for St. Ann's

A minstrel show will be part of the activities at St. Ann's Church, Sawkill, commemorating the 35th anniversary of the Rev. James Dunnigan, pastor of the church there.

Announcement about the show was made today by a spokesman for the Christian Mothers' Association of St. Peter's Church, Kingston, which will sponsor the minstrel on June 17 at 8 p. m.

The committee on arrangements is making elaborate plans for the event which is expected to draw many from Kingston as well as from Sawkill and surrounding area.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Program of Folk Music Is Enjoyed

Woodstock, June 12—The program of folk music at the Red Barn for the benefit of the Woodstock Library Sunday afternoon was unique in both content and presentation. Although it had been previously announced as a concert of tape recordings of folk music collected from many parts of the country by Mrs. Sidney Robertson Cowell, the surprise element was introduced during the intermission with an announcement by Morris Klein that Sam Eskin would sing a number of folk songs accompanying himself on the guitar.

Speaking before an enthusiastic audience, among whom were many of Woodstock's most prominent musicians, Mrs. Cowell explained before playing the recordings that they would undoubtedly sound strange in that they reflected a type of singing known in this country before European culture was introduced. In tradition most of them came from Great Britain and were sung without accompaniment. The singer, Mrs. Cowell said, cannot let the rhythm drop, and must keep it moving.

This type of music, she also explained, is fast dying out, and at first collectors were only interested in the text of the songs, the music of which was difficult to notate.

At first, the ballads which are concerned chiefly with stories about the people themselves, sound somewhat monotonous and nasal, but with continued listening the rhythms and curious harmonies and inflections emerge. As Mrs. Cowell pointed out, the singers have little interest in their own voices but are devoted to the song and certainly to endurance. The themes revolve around such dire happenings as hunting accidents, a brothers' quarrel, heartbreak and the real things of their lives.

Unusual Experiences

In her search for the ballad singers, Mrs. Cowell encountered many unusual experiences — a woman singer in the Shenandoah valley, suspicious of newcomers, kept a shotgun across her knee while she sang, and the fabulous Mrs. Emma Dusenberry, aged 79 of Arkansas, who for her fee of $1 per day wanted to sing for eight hours at a stretch. When Mrs. Dusenberry appeared to tire she would give a little sigh and start off again as though "charged with electricity."

Included also were the old hymns and white spirituals which came from England and still survive in Virginia, a relic of the early religious revivals, and the "best song in town" sung by a bartender near a lumber camp in Wisconsin. Lively and probably closer to our present day forms of popular music were the songs contributed by a quartet which tours the churches in the community, accompanied by an authentic honky-tonk piano.

One of the best fiddlers Mrs. Cowell had to retrieve, with the aid of his comrades, from a road crew, his fingers stiff and swollen, but when he finally played, it was well worth the effort.

Bringing the program to a brilliant conclusion, Sam Eskin indeed proved that the spirit of this music, with such interpreters, is in little likelihood of disappearing. Departing from the tradition of the old ballad singers, Eskin's songs were expressively and dramatically presented, among them the old English ballad "Sinkin' in the Low Lands," an East Texas ballad, a Negro spiritual and a rollicking cowboy song. He concluded with a new song, which he said may eventually become a folk song, "Hound Dog Bay at the Moon."

New York, June 12 (AP)—Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy says he will recommend a successor in his city job "if the mayor asks me." President Truman yesterday nominated Medina to the Second Circuit Court of Appeals and named Murphy to replace Medina.

As Pegler Sees It

predatory unions and the underworld rackets which had flourished as openly as grocery stores. I recall a night when the bodyguard of the late Arnold Rothstein was shot dead in a gambling joint in a de luxe hotel and the pertinent bureaucrats of an overgrown hick town had a devil of a time hiding until the assassin had cleared out.

I used to write an annual report on "Crime Must Go Week" in Miami, a gala in which a sacrificial crap table was chopped up by the deputies with photographers doing their mournful duty, thus marking the end of the season. I rely on memory, but I believe they also usually confiscated a few bottles of Cuban rum and Danish beer in these droll rites. One night, after covering a big fight, I parked my car in front of the Roman pool and when ordered by a cop to move because the law forbade, I clutched this illiterate cracker by his sleeve and said: "Boy, if you are looking for violators of the law, just follow me and you are a made man! Do you know they are playing roulette and a game of chance called craps right upstairs?"

This earnest yokel twitched his scalp and batted his hairy ears and said: "Aw, mister, please don't act that-away. We don't want no trouble, but if you park there how can the customers get in?"

Another year when I had helped to solemnize "Crime Must Go Week" and started north, a specimen of swamp life in the Legislature at Tallahassee concluded that I must be up around Savannah by now and brashly announced that the Legislature was searching all Florida to subpoena me and make me eat my dirty slanders. I was just passing Jacksonville when I heard of this and threw the wheel hard over and reached Tallahassee in a few hours.

And when the statesman heard who had hit town he yelled "To the hills, men! The dam has bust!" and vanished into the wallows behind Okeechobee.

These were conditions to challenge the ethics, competence and personal courage of any editor. It is not pleasant to be threatened and Mr. Newton, of the Tampa Tribune, says he and his people received many threats as, from my own experience, I have no doubt they did. Both papers nevertheless pressed on and when Mr. Newton said in a lecture to a group of West German editors in New York, "If a free press betrays its trust then it betrays the people into slavery" he was not hamming or over-stating the case.

I would point out, however, that if you substitute the word "union" for "gambling syndicate" in Mr. Newton's findings, you will have a fine estimate of the worst internal danger that has threatened our country since 1865.

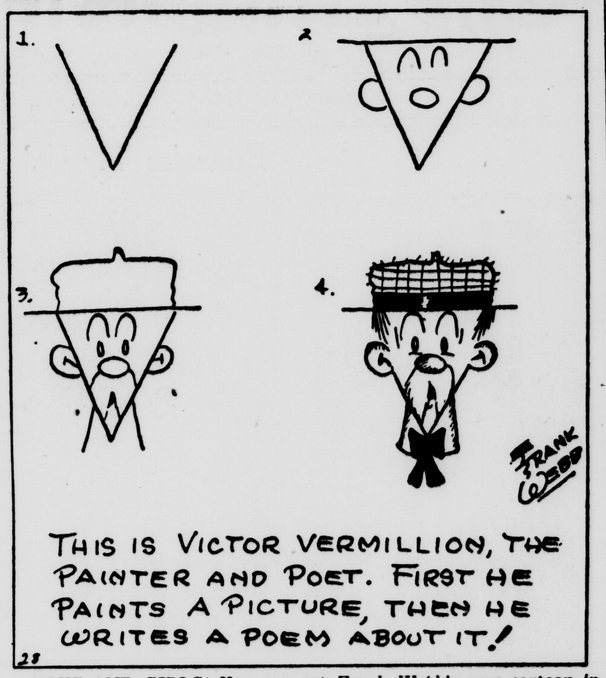

Thus: "This gambling syndicate spent $100,000 on the election and was the No. 1 political power in our community. Its leaders never were arrested and its hoodlums never went to jail. The syndicate, in order to operate successfully, had to have the cooperation of law-enforcement officers and other public officials. Many leading citizens refused to offer themselves for office because they were unwilling to compromise their integrity by getting down on their knees to the underworld (substitute "unions") to get elected."

Memo from the U.S.A.

we Americans don't get mad easy.

But when we do, look out!

We pitch in and turn out guns, tanks, planes and ships faster than anybody else on earth.

But nobody boots us into line. No commissars. No bayonets. No slave labor. We just get to work--because we've got something to work for . . . our liberties and our freedoms.

And back of our men and machines is electric power--as much as all the rest of the world has.

It's steady, dependable power--the kind provided by our business-managed electric light and power companies--the kind that helped perform production miracles in World War II. Today, these companies have doubled the supply of electric power available before that war--and they're stepping it up all the time.

Yessir, we have power--with more on the way--and we know how to use it. That's a good thing for everybody to remember right now. And it's a good thing for some people here at home to remember when they say "the government" could do a better job of running the electric light and power business.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, JR.

Program of Folk Music Is Enjoyed

Woodstock, June 12—The program of folk music at the Red Barn for the benefit of the Woodstock Library Sunday afternoon was unique in both content and presentation. Although it had been previously announced as a concert of tape recordings of folk music collected from many parts of the country by Mrs. Sidney Robertson Cowell, the surprise element was introduced during the intermission with an announcement by Morris Klein that Sam Eskin would sing a number of folk songs accompanying himself on the guitar.

Speaking before an enthusiastic audience, among whom were many of Woodstock's most prominent musicians, Mrs. Cowell explained before playing the recordings that they would undoubtedly sound strange in that they reflected a type of singing known in this country before European culture was introduced. In tradition most of them came from Great Britain and were sung without accompaniment. The singer, Mrs. Cowell said, cannot let the rhythm drop, and must keep it moving.

This type of music, she also explained, is fast dying out, and at first collectors were only interested in the text of the songs, the music of which was difficult to notate.

At first, the ballads which are concerned chiefly with stories about the people themselves, scund somewhat monotonous and nasal, but with continued listening the rhythms and curious harmonies and inflections emerge. As Mrs. Cowell pointed out, the singers have little interest in their own voices but are devoted to the song and certainly to endurance. The themes revolve around such dire happenings as hunting accidents, a brothers' quarrel, heartbreak and the real things of their lives.

Unusual Experiences

In her search for the ballad singers, Mrs. Cowell encountered many unusual experiences — a woman singer in the Shenandoah valley, suspicious of newcomers, kept a shotgun across her knee while she sang, and the fabulous Mrs. Emma Dusenberry, aged 79 of Arkansas, who for her fee of $1 per day wanted to sing for eight hours at a stretch. When Mrs. Dusenberry appeared to tire she would give a little sigh and start off again as though "charged with electricity."

Included also were the old hymns and white spirituals which came from England and still survive in Virginia, a relic of the early religious revivals, and the "best song in town" sung by a bartender near a lumber camp in Wisconsin. Lively and probably closer to our present day forms of popular music were the songs contributed by a quartet which tours the churches in the community, accompanied by an authentic honky-tonk piano.

One of the best fiddlers Mrs. Cowell had to retrieve, with the aid of his comrades, from a road crew, his fingers stiff and swollen, but when he finally played, it was well worth the effort.

Bringing the program to a brilliant conclusion, Sam Eskin indeed proved that the spirit of this music, with such interpreters, is in little likelihood of disappearing. Departing from the tradition of the old ballad singers, Eskin's songs were expressively and dramatically presented, among them the old English ballad "Sinkin' in the Low Lands," an East Texas ballad, a Negro spiritual and a rollicking cowboy song. He concluded with a new song, which he said may eventually become a folk song, "Hound Dog Bay at the Moon."

Would Name Successor

New York, June 12 (AP)—Police Commissioner Thomas F. Murphy says he will recommend a successor in his city job "if the mayor asks me." But the chances are that it may be months—perhaps a year—before Murphy moves to the U. S. District Court bench to succeed Judge Harold R. Medina. President Truman yesterday nominated Medina to the Second Circuit Court of Appeals and named Murphy to replace Medina.

I recall a night when the bodyguard of the late Arnold Rothstein was shot dead in a gambling joint in a de luxe hotel and the pertinent bureaucrats of an overgrown hick town had a devil of a time hiding until the assassin had cleared out.

I used to write an annual report on "Crime Must Go Week" in Miami, a gala in which a sacrificial crap table was chopped up by the deputies with photographers doing their mournful duty, thus marking the end of the season. I rely on memory, but I believe they also usually confiscated a few bottles of Cuban rum and Danish beer in these droll rites. One night, after covering a big fight, I parked my car in front of the Roman pool and when ordered by a cop to move because the law forbade, I clutched this illiterate cracker by his sleeve and said: "Boy, if you are looking for violators of the law, just follow me and you are a made man! Do you know they are playing roulette and a game of chance called craps right upstairs?"

This earnest yokel twitched his scalp and batted his hairy ears and said: "Aw, mister, please don't act that-away. We don't want no trouble, but if you park there how can the customers get in?"

Another year when I had helped to solemnize "Crime Must Go Week" and started north, a specimen of swamp life in the Legislature at Tallahassee concluded that I must be up around Savannah by now and brashly announced that the Legislature was searching all Florida to subpoena me and make me eat my dirty slanders. I was just passing Jacksonville when I heard of this and threw the wheel hard over and reached Tallahassee in a few hours.

And when the statesman heard who had hit town he yelled "To the hills, men! The dam has bust!" and vanished into the wallows behind Okeechobee.

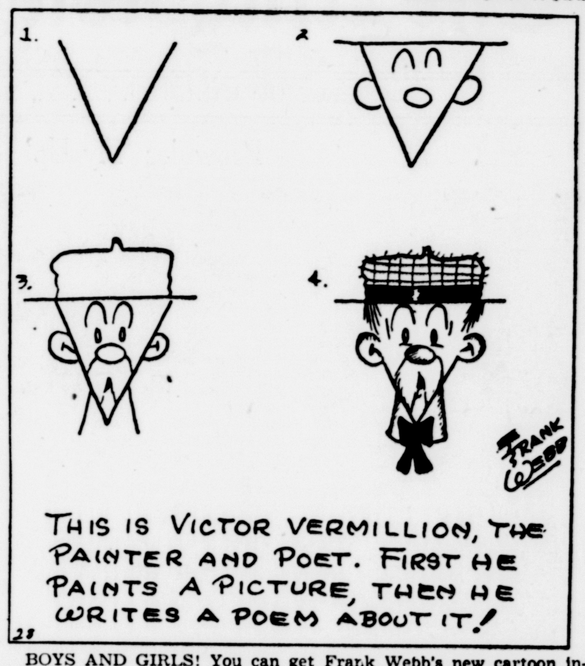

These were conditions to challenge the ethics, competence and personal courage of any editor. It is not pleasant to be threatened and Mr. Newton, of the Tampa Tribune, says he and his people received many threats as, from my own experience, I have no doubt they did. Both papers nevertheless pressed on and when Mr. Newton said in a lecture to a group of West German editors in New York, "If a free press betrays its trust then it betrays the people into slavery" he was not hamming or over-stating the case.

I would point out, however, that if you substitute the word "union" for "gambling syndicate" in Mr. Newton's findings, you will have a fine estimate of the worst internal danger that has threatened our country since 1865.

Thus: "This gambling syndicate spent $100,000 on the election and was the No. 1 political power in our community. Its leaders never were arrested and its hoodlums never went to jail. The syndicate, in order to operate successfully, had to have the cooperation of law-enforcement officers and other public officials. Many leading citizens refused to offer themselves for office because they were unwilling to compromise their integrity by getting down on their knees to the underworld (substitute "unions") to get elected."

Patricia Ann Adsit is again greeting her numerous friends in the village following a sojourn of two weeks at the Jersey seashore.

A stiff breeze Sunday forenoon discouraged many of the visiting out of town reservoir fishermen. Attendance at the local fishing grounds nevertheless was large all day.

Having a birthday June 13 is Mrs. Robert DuBois of Ashokan who before marriage was Margaret Grossman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Grossman, now of Miami, Fla. Margaret attended the Shokan school and the Kingston High School. She has two children, Roger and Renee DuBois.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Naughton, summer residents of the Ridge road sector of Shokan, spent Saturday here. They report having plenty of rain in the Fleetwood section of Westchester county.

Congressman Henry Latham, Republican congressman from Queens who was mentioned as a witness in The Freeman story anent Rep. Hugh Scott's charges against Ambassador Muccio, has a number of friends in Shokan where he is an occasional visitor. Mr. and Mrs. Latham spent their honeymoon at the James Carpenter bungalow several years ago.

Recent callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adsit included Mrs. Russell Boice and Mrs. Herbert Graves, Kingston matrons who as Dorothy Hyde and Virginia Cudney, respectively, resided here as girls.

Improvements at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Richard, formerly the Emily Hansen place in the village center, include a new kitchen, electric connection and facilities for pumping water from the well driven near the house last month.

A skunk chasing the cows of Robert Loden up in Delaware county was killed by a forest ranger and found to be rabid. The herd will now have to be watched closely for the next several weeks for possible infection from bites or scratches.

John Rutherford returned to his Ashokan heights farm home last week after having been a patient at the Kingston Hospital. John was given oxygen treatment following a severe attack of illness in May.

Memo from the U.S.A.

we Americans don't get mad easy.

But when we do, look out!

We pitch in and turn out guns, tanks, planes and ships faster than anybody else on earth.

But nobody boots us into line. No commissars. No bayonets. No slave labor. We just get to work--because we've got something to work for . . . our liberties and our freedoms.

And back of our men and machines is electric power--as much as all the rest of the world has.

It's steady, dependable power--the kind provided by our business-managed electric light and power companies--the kind that helped perform production miracles in World War II. Today, these companies have doubled the supply of electric power available before that war--and they're stepping it up all the time.

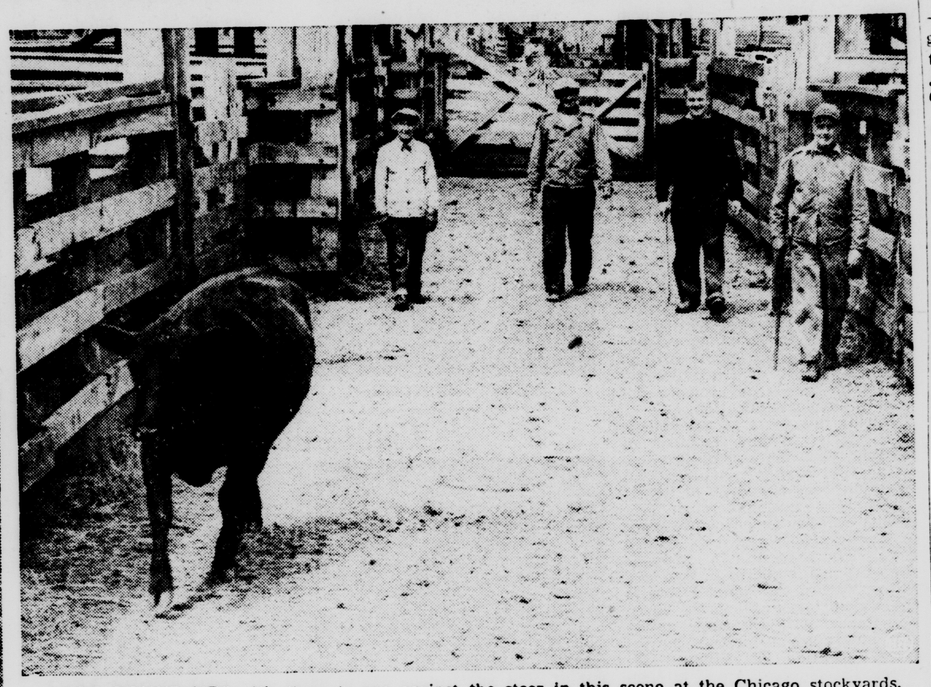

Yessir, we have power--with more on the way--and we know how to use it. That's a good thing for everybody to remember right now. And it's a good thing for some people here at home to remember when they say "the government" could do a better job of running the electric light and power business.

Controls at 'Steak' in Battle of the Beef

BEEF ON THE CUFF—Butcher Edward F. Butler of Syracuse, N. Y., left, offers easy terms to buyers of his high-priced steaks. He's explaining the deal to Mrs. Leon Prue, a customer. What it really adds up to is a stunt to emphasize the high cost of beef.

LAST ROUND-UP?—It's three-to-one against the steer in this scene at the Chicago stockyards. The lone steer had an escort of four handlers on its way to the slaughter house, giving a graphic picture of the situation at the major meat-packing center, where the meat is fading fast away in the wake of protests by cattlemen and packers over government price rollbacks.

Hagerty Will Probe Saratoga Investigators

Ballston Spa, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—The Saratoga gambling investigators undergo polite probing themselves today by Justice Leo J. Hagerty of State Supreme Court.

He invited them into court to try to find out whether there was any staff friction that caused Sidney B. Gordon to resign as chief aide to Special Prosecutor John M. Minton.

Gordon quit last Wednesday, saying his doctor had advised him to give it up because the job was undermining his health.

Minton and his No. 1 consultant, Harris B. Steinberg, vigorously denied reports that Gordon had withdrawn because of discord within the investigating staff. So did Gordon.

But the next day, Gordon told a reporter he had quit because of a clash, apparently with Minton and Steinberg, on how the probe should be conducted.

Gordon was reported to have felt that Steinberg, in effect, was taking over the investigation as consultant to the 65-year-old Minton, who was appointed by Governor Dewey.

Justice Hagerty stepped in and called the investigators to a special huddle this morning.

Hagerty is presiding over the extraordinary term of Supreme Court, under which the special grand jury was empaneled to probe gambling and possible political corruption in Saratoga county.

DiSalle planned successive conferences with seven American newsprint publishers in the afternoon.

Choice Beef Cuts Will Be Scarce

Chicago, June 12 (AP)—Choice cuts of beef, it appeared today, are going to be scarce in many of the nation's butcher shops in a few days.

There still is beef in shops across the country, a survey showed. But the continued slump in cattle marketing, packing spokesmen said, will mean an extremely tight retail supply of beef soon.

After a week of price controls for live beef animals, there appeared no indication of a boost in supplies. Yesterday's cattle shipments to the country's 12 major livestock centers were substantially below normal. Beef processing by leading packers, as during last week, remained drastically curtailed.

Cattle shipments totaled 38,500, the lowest run for a Monday since Feb. 14, 1949, and 6,000 fewer than last Monday. Packing spokesmen expressed doubt about prospects of any substantial increase in slaughtering this week. Three of the biggest packers, Swift, Armour, and Wilson, reported they did no slaughtering in their big Chicago plants yesterday.

Token Purchases Only

The major packers contend that Office of Price Stabilization Controls made it impossible to purchase any more than token numbers of cattle.

But Michael DiSalle, the government's price stabilizer, said problems of meat control are being ironed out and production will be "nearly normal" within a few weeks.

In New York, a meat industry spokesman said the beef shortage probably will be felt in the metropolitan area before the end of the week. There has been considerable consumer resistance to higher prices and no panic buying was expected. The situation in the Chicago area was similar to that in New York.

Search Is Continued

Gatlinburg, Tenn., June 12 (AP)—Weary park rangers and volunteers pressed their search today for an Ohio girl lost in the almost impenetrable wilds of the Smoky Mountains. The object of the hunt—the largest in the history of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park—is Evangeline Lorimer, a student nurse from Cincinnati, O. Yesterday was her 21st birthday. The young hiking enthusiast was last seen Friday walking alone in the rugged bear-infested terrain near Cades Cove, in a remote section of the huge park. She came to the mountains on a camping trip with her father, W. M. Lorimer of Seattle, Wash. Lorimer said his daughter left their campsite Friday afternoon to "take a little walk."

Taipeh, Formosa, June 12 (AP)—A refugee Chinese girl living at Tainan, Formosa, recently wrote to her family in Communist Shanghai. In reply, she received a picture. It showed the heads of her mother, father, sister and brother—her entire family—resting on a table. An American woman in Tainan who knows the girl well told the story. Communications between this island and the Chinese mainland have come to a virtual halt because of Communist reprisals. People living here say they dare not write relatives on the mainland for fear of exposing them to death.

Stores Are Pleased With Price War

New York, June 12 (AP)—The city's big department stores indicated satisfaction with their price war today as new increases in retail sales were noted for the second straight week.

"Business is fine. This so-called price war is just what was needed to get people in a buying mood again," said one retailer.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported yesterday that dollar volume in the city's stores climbed last week 18 per cent over the similar week in 1950.

It was the second week of the price tag fight, and the second week of big dollar gains.

Yesterday brought a new spurt in the price war, paving the way for more profits this week.

Palm Beach and Springweave men's suits were back on sale at Macy's and Gimbel's in Manhattan and at the Abraham and Straus store in Brooklyn. Palm Beach outfits closed the day more than $6 below their fixed $29.95 price; Springweaves at about $12 below a fixed $49.50 price.

Hot Spell Prevails

Chicago, June 12 (AP)—The southwest was having a spell of sizzling hot weather but temperatures were around normal levels in other parts of the country today. The mercury yesterday climbed to 107 at Yuma, Ariz., and 105 at The Presidio, Tex., and Blythe, Calif. There were a few wet spots today. Showers were reported from the southern Great Lakes region to the southern Great Plains. Light rain also fell in the upper Mississippi Valley, the northern Rockies and the Pacific Northwest. It was fair weather in the Middle Atlantic and Gulf states as well as in the hot far southwest.

Colonials Will Not Surrender Can-Am Franchise, KBC Decides

Pledges of $2,500, New Player Help From Yanks Cited as Reason

The on-and-off status of the Kingston Colonial franchise in the Canadian-American League is ON again today, following a meeting of directors and interested fans last night at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

According to a statement issued today, the Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. group has definite intentions of staying in organized baseball beyond June 14.

On June 7, the KBC notified President Albert Houghton of the Class C circuit, that it was relinquishing its franchise as of June 14.

The June 14 date is Thursday when the Oneonta Red Sox come in for a twilight-night doubleheader and the management will award a television set.

The renewed optimism on the part of KBC directors is based on new pledges boosting the total to date in the neighborhood of $2,500. A trio of baseball-minded citizens, whose names were not divulged to the public, had pledged $1,000 prior to last night's meeting. Additional cash pledges of $1,450 were pledged at the Stuyvesant meeting.

No Resignations

(No action was taken on the proffered resignations of J. Frederick Ertel, president; and Addison Jones, general manager. Both repeated their offers before the meeting, after having authorized such offers for publication yesterday. Despite some internal grumbling in the organization and the resignation of one member of the board of directors in protest to one of the officials, no action was taken last night.)

Addison Jones, general manager, said that the Amsterdam Rugmakers had promised additional player help for the Colonials. Big Sam Piacentino, a potent factor in the Colonial batting order, is already here on option from the Yankee chain.

Jones said that "three more players" would be sold to Kingston by the Little Yankees. He declined to reveal their names, but indicated they would include an infielder, outfielder and pitcher.

Drop 8-6 Decision

Meanwhile, the Colonials ran into a brilliant relief pitching chore by Tom Mollica of the Rugmakers and dropped last night's contest in Amsterdam, 8 to 6, after leading 5-3.

Mollica relieved starter Don Sundlov in the midst of a five-run rally by Kingston in the third inning and pitched shutout ball for the remainder of the game. He gave up only two hits in 6 2/3 frames, walked three and struck out eight.

The Rugmakers routed Jack Ormiston in the fifth inning but were unable to help Chico Alvarado, who blanked the home club in the last three innings.

The Colonials scored in the first inning when DiFresco bobbled leadoff Dennis Healey's grounder, Manager Joe Kern singled, Lou Kramberg walked and Sam Piacentino bounced into a double play.

A tremendous triple by Big Sam and Tony Gomez's 350-foot homer over the right field fence featured the Colonials five-run uprising against Sundlov in the fifth.

Gomez Raps Homer

Healey and Kern opened the lucrative inning with walks and Lou Kramberg doubled to left scoring Healey. Piacentino drilled a triple to center, chasing Kern and Kramberg across the plate. Jack Allen forced Piacentino at the plate on a tap to third base but Tony Gomez followed with a shot over the right field wall. Exit Sundlov, enter Mollica and the end of the Kingston harvest for the night.

The tbig blows for the Rugmakers were home run blasts by John Paul Jones and Ed Posipanka that figured in a three-run second and four-run fifth for the winners.

Kramberg and Piacentino each rapped two hits for the Colonials, while Jones, Posipanka and Mollica spanked two hits apiece for Amsterdam.

The Colonials are scheduled for single engagements in Gloversville tonight and Wednesday, returning to the stadium for a twilight-night doubleheader with Oneonta on Thursday, starting at 6:30 p. m.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The Oneonta Red Sox, intent on grabbing the Canadian-American League lead, entertain a potent crew from Amsterdam tonight.

The Pittsfield Electrics are on top of the circuit by a game and a half lead over Oneonta. Amsterdam is threatening from its third-place spot, only a game behind the Sox. The Electrics meet the fifth-spot Colonels at Rome tonight.

Pittsfield and Oneonta divided a twin bill last night. The Electrics took the first, 12-8, on a display of batting power, and lost the second, 4-2.

In other games, Gloversville defeated Rome twice, 4-0 and 7-4, and Amsterdam topped last-place Kingston, 8-6.

In the opener at Oneonta, rightfielder Bill Pope of Pittsfield knotted the count in the third with a grand-slam homer. Oneonta came back with two in the fourth and two in the fifth, but Pittsfield won in the seventh and final frame with seven runs on three hits.

Joe Ross, Oneonta righthander, took the nightcap with a five-hitter to rack up his seventh victory in a row. He has lost one.

At Rome, Guy Coleman tossed a five-hitter for the victory. He also came in as relief for Bob Sise in the eighth inning of the nightcap and protected Sise's win.

Three homers were hit in the finale. Gloversville's Ernie Desperido got his with none on, and Rome's Forrest Swanson and Buck Etchison both duplicated the feat.

Four-masters also marked the contest at Amsterdam as Kingston dropped its 34th game, against only six victories. Amsterdam's John Paul Jones and Ray Posipanka and Kingston's Tony Gomez did the honors.

The Scoreboard

BY JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders in their respective major league races, begin another swing through foreign territory tonight nursing various minor aches and pains. They hope no serious complications develop.

Manager Paul Richards parades his White Sox, their American League lead trimmed to two and a half games by the New York Yankees, into Washington for a night game against the Senators.

Brooklyn, sporting a five and one half game National League edge, opens its second western tour of the season against the Cardinals tonight in St. Louis.

Catcher Gus Niarhos and rightfielder Al Zarilla of the pennant-hungry White Sox are suffering from groin injuries, pitcher Howie Judson's shoulder is paining, and outfielder Ed Stewart has been running a fever. In addition, pitcher Harry Dorish has been called home to Swoyerville, Pa., because of the death of an infant daughter.

Nevertheless, Chicago hopes to fatten its win column at Washington. The Chisox have belted the Senators seven times this year, losing only one game. Lou Kretlow, who stopped Washington with four hits last week, is Richards' pitching choice in the opener of the three-game series. Connie Marrero goes for the Senators.

The White Sox have four games in Philadelphia before moving to New York and Boston for a couple of tough series which should show which way the pennant wind is blowing.

Manager Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers will shoot Preacher Roe and his eight-win-and-no-loss record at the Cards. This is the first of 13 games the Bums play in the west, and Dressen hopes 13 is a lucky number.

Newcombe Ailing

Big Don Newcombe has a sore shoulder and will miss one and maybe two pitching turns, thus upsetting the Brooklyn hurling rotation. The weather has been cold and damp in Flatbush, and Dressen hopes some hot days will help Newcombe's flipper. Gerald Staley (7-5) is nominated to oppose Roe.

Brooklyn won six and lost three on its last western trip, and if anyone is going to stop the Dodger flag rush they had better start the stopping. During the home stand just ended, Dressen's club took the west seven to three. The Cardinals were dumped three straight at Ebbets Field.

The New York Yankees, won three of four from Chicago to barely get out of the west with a 6-5 edge, are home for 13 games. Manager Casey Stengel's world champions have three games with the St. Louis Browns starting today. Stengel will send Vic Raschi (9-3) against Duane Pillette of the Browns, who climbed from the cellar by taking six of 11 games on their last home stand.

Musial Threatens Robbie's Lead

New York, June 12 (AP)—Stan Musial is treading on the heels of Jackie Robinson in another sizzling National League batting race. The St. Louis slugger is only four points behind Robinson in his bid for a fifth batting title. Musial won in 1943, 1946, 1948 and 1950.

Robinson slumped during Brooklyn's home stand, losing 33 points in the week ending Sunday. His average fell from .403 to .370 as he had only three hits in 22 trips for the last six games.

Musial, closing more ground each week after a poor start, is a close-up second at .366.

Red Schoendienst, a Cardinal teammate, is moving up with Musial. The second baseman bounced up 20 points to move from ninth to third at .350.

Roy Campanella, the Brooklyn catcher benched for weak hitting in early spring, has caught on fire. Roy moved from tenth to fourth on a 16-point advance to .343.

Richie Ashburn of the 1950 champion Phillies is batting fifth at .341. Bob Elliott of Boston, an early season challenger, has slid down to .339, and sixth place, just a step ahead of Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner at .337. Kiner, once more socking those homers with regularity, wasn't among the top 10 in average a week ago.

Dick Sisler of the Phils is eighth at .326, Frank Baumholtz of Chicago next at .325. Al Dark of New York and Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn are tied for tenth at .322. Reese, in a worse slump than Robinson, had only two hits all week, losing 48 points.

New Classes Local Drivers To Add Color

More Than 100 Aces Are Invited

Invitations were mailed on Monday to more than 100 prospective entries for the annual Kingston Powerboat Association's Regatta on the Rondout on Sunday, July 8, it was announced today.

Vernon Radel, public relations director of the KPBA said the mailing invitations was delayed pending permission by the Coast Guard to stage the annual event.

Radel pointed out that a new rule set up by the Coast Guard in September, 1950, stipulated that all regattas and marine parades of all types had to be certified by the district Coast Guard.

Permission to stage the KPBA regatta was received here on Saturday from Capt. W. C. Capron, Assistant Chief of Operations.

The invitations will be sent to outboard drivers in the seven northeastern states and return entries are expected by the end of the week.

The schedule of events has been changed this year to include one extra event, along with a new class. The schedule will include:

Class M hydroplanes, two heats.
Class A hydroplanes, one heat.
Class B hydroplanes, two heats.
Free-for-all hydroplanes, one heat.
C Service Runabouts, one heat.
C Racing Runabouts, one heat.
Class D utilities, two heats.

Radel said that two Class D utilities were entered illegally in last year's runabout division and, although they were disqualified, they made quite a showing. This class is in the 25-horsepower division and should attract the largest number of entries for any class.

Several Kingston and Poughkeepsie pilots are expected to compete in that division.

Mulloy Advances In English Play

Beckenham, Eng., June 12 (AP)—Top seeded Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., faces British veteran George Godsell in the second round of the Kent lawn tennis tournament today.

In Godsell, the United States veteran will be meeting a player of the old school who relies entirely upon placements, cut shots and delicate lobs instead of power.

Mulloy opened his bid for the title yesterday with a 6-4, 7-5 conquest of Derek Leyland of England. The match was not as close as the score indicated as Mulloy scored almost at will.

Colonials Will Not Surrender Can-Am Franchise, KBC Decides

Pledges of $2,500, New Player Help From Yanks Cited as Reason

The on-and-off status of the Kingston Colonial franchise in the Canadian-American League is ON again today, following a meeting of directors and interested fans last night at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

According to a statement issued today, the Kingston Baseball Club, Inc. group has definite intentions of staying in organized baseball beyond June 14.

On June 7, the KBC notified President Albert Houghton of the Class C circuit, that it was relinquishing its franchise as of June 14.

The June 14 date is Thursday when the Oneonta Red Sox come in for a twilight-night doubleheader and the management will award a television set.

The renewed optimism on the part of KBC directors is based on new pledges boosting the total to date in the neighborhood of $2,500. A trio of baseball-minded citizens, whose names were not divulged to the public, had pledged $1,000 prior to last night's meeting. Additional cash pledges of $1,450 were pledged at the Stuyvesant meeting.

No Resignations

(No action was taken on the proffered resignations of J. Frederick Ertel, president; and Addison Jones, general manager. Both repeated their offers before the meeting, after having authorized such offers for publication yesterday. Despite some internal grumbling in the organization and the resignation of one member of the board of directors in protest to one of the officials, no action was taken last night.)

Addison Jones, general manager, said that the Amsterdam Rugmakers had promised additional player help for the Colonials. Big Sam Piacentino, a potent factor in the Colonial batting order, is already here on option from the Yankee chain.

Jones said that "three more players" would be sold to Kingston by the Little Yankees. He declined to reveal their names, but indicated they would include an infielder, outfielder and pitcher.

Drop 8-6 Decision

Meanwhile, the Colonials ran into a brilliant relief pitching chore by Tom Mollica of the Rugmakers and dropped last night's contest in Amsterdam, 8 to 6, after leading 5-3.

Mollica relieved starter Don Sundlov in the midst of a five-run rally by Kingston in the third inning and pitched shutout ball for the remainder of the game. He gave up only two hits in 6 2/3 frames, walked three and struck out eight.

The Rugmakers routed Jack Ormiston in the fifth inning but were unable to help Chico Alvarado, who blanked the home club in the last three innings.

The Colonials scored in the first inning when DiFresco bobbled leadoff Dennis Healey's grounder, Manager Joe Kern singled, Lou Kramberg walked and Sam Piacentino bounced into a double play.

A tremendous triple by Big Sam and Tony Gomez's 350-foot homer over the right field fence featured the Colonials five-run uprising against Sundlov in the fifth.

Gomez Raps Homer

Healey and Kern opened the lucrative inning with walks and Lou Kramberg doubled to left scoring Healey. Piacentino drilled a triple to center, chasing Kern and Kramberg across the plate. Jack Allen forced Piacentino at the plate on a tap to third base but Tony Gomez followed with a shot over the right field wall. Exit Sundlov, enter Mollica and the end of the Kingston harvest for the night.

The tbig blows for the Rugmakers were home run blasts by John Paul Jones and Ed Posipanka that figured in a three-run second and four-run fifth for the winners.

Kramberg and Piacentino each rapped two hits for the Colonials, while Jones, Posipanka and Mollica spanked two hits apiece for Amsterdam.

The Colonials are scheduled for single engagements in Gloversville tonight and Wednesday, returning to the stadium for a twilight-night doubleheader with Oneonta on Thursday, starting at 6:30 p. m.

Fox Overhauls Fain With .364

Chicago, June 12 (AP)—Baseball's bantam, 150-pound Nellie Fox of the White Sox, today led American League batters with .364, only one percentage point over the erstwhile leader, Ferris Fain of Philadelphia.

While the Athletics' first baseman skidded three points to .363 after collecting 12 hits in 34 trips during the week, the White Sox' second sacker climbed two with 12 blows in 32 AB's.

The biggest upswing was by Ray Coleman of St. Louis. He banged 14 safeties in 30 tries to soar 24 points from eighth place to third with .355.

Other leaders are Orestes Minoso, Chicago, .354; Dom DiMaggio, Boston, .345; Dick Kryhoski, Detroit, .342; Luke Easter, Cleveland, making his first top ten appearance, .337; Eddie Robinson, Chicago, .329; Vern Stephens, Boston, .325; and Jim Busby, Chicago, .322.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

The Oneonta Red Sox, intent on grabbing the Canadian-American League lead, entertain a potent crew from Amsterdam tonight.

The Pittsfield Electrics are on top of the circuit by a game and a half lead over Oneonta. Amsterdam is threatening from its third-place spot, only a game behind the Sox. The Electrics meet the fifth-spot Colonels at Rome tonight.

Pittsfield and Oneonta divided a twin bill last night. The Electrics took the first, 12-8, on a display of batting power, and lost the second, 4-2.

In other games, Gloversville defeated Rome twice, 4-0 and 7-4, and Amsterdam topped last-place Kingston, 8-6.

In the opener at Oneonta, right-fielder Bill Pope of Pittsfield knotted the count in the third with a grand-slam homer. Oneonta came back with two in the fourth and two in the fifth, but Pittsfield won in the seventh and final frame with seven runs on three hits.

Joe Ross, Oneonta righthander, took the nightcap with a five-hitter to rack up his seventh victory in a row. He has lost one.

At Rome, Guy Coleman tossed a five-hitter for the victory. He also came in as relief for Bob Sise in the eighth inning of the nightcap and protected Sise's win.

Three homers were hit in the finale. Gloversville's Ernie Desperido got his with none on, and Rome's Forrest Swanson and Buck Etchison both duplicated the feat.

Four-masters also marked the contest at Amsterdam as Kingston dropped its 34th game, against only six victories. Amsterdam's John Paul Jones and Ray Posipanka and Kingston's Tony Gomez did the honors.

The Scoreboard

BY JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders in their respective major league races, begin another swing through foreign territory tonight nursing various minor aches and pains. They hope no serious complications develop.

Manager Paul Richards parades his White Sox, their American League lead trimmed to two and a half games by the New York Yankees, into Washington for a night game against the Senators.

Brooklyn, sporting a five and one half game National League edge, opens its second western tour of the season against the Cardinals tonight in St. Louis.

Catcher Gus Niarhos and right-fielder Al Zarilla of the pennant-hungry White Sox are suffering from groin injuries, pitcher Howie Judson's shoulder is paining, and outfielder Ed Stewart has been running a fever. In addition, pitcher Harry Dorish has been called home to Swoyerville, Pa., because of the death of an infant daughter.

Nevertheless, Chicago hopes to fatten its win column at Washington. The Chisox have belted the Senators seven times this year, losing only one game. Lou Kretlow, who stopped Washington with four hits last week, is Richards' pitching choice in the opener of the three-game series. Connie Marrero goes for the Senators.

The White Sox have four games in Philadelphia before moving to New York and Boston for a couple of tough series which should show which way the pennant wind is blowing.

Manager Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers will shoot Preacher Roe and his eight-win-and-no-loss record at the Cards. This is the first of 13 games the Bums play in the west, and Dressen hopes 13 is a lucky number.

Newcombe Ailing

Big Don Newcombe has a sore shoulder and will miss one and maybe two pitching turns, thus upsetting the Brooklyn hurling rotation. The weather has been cold and damp in Flatbush, and Dressen hopes some hot days will help Newcombe's flipper. Gerald Staley (7-5) is nominated to oppose Roe.

Brooklyn won six and lost three on its last western trip, and if anyone is going to stop the Dodger flag rush they had better start the stopping. During the home stand just ended, Dressen's club took the west seven to three. The Cardinals were dumped three straight at Ebbets Field.

The New York Yankees, won three of four from Chicago to barely get out of the west with a 6-5 edge, are home for 13 games. Manager Casey Stengel's world champions have three games with the St. Louis Browns starting today. Stengel will send Vic Raschi (9-3) against Duane Pillette of the Browns, who climbed from the cellar by taking six of 11 games on their last home stand.

Musial Threatens Robbie's Lead

New York, June 12 (AP)—Stan Musial is treading on the heels of Jackie Robinson in another sizzling National League batting race. The St. Louis slugger is only four points behind Robinson in his bid for a fifth batting title. Musial won in 1943, 1946, 1948 and 1950.

Robinson slumped during Brooklyn's home stand, losing 33 points in the week ending Sunday. His average fell from .403 to .370 as he had only three hits in 22 trips for the last six games.

Musial, closing more ground each week after a poor start, is a close-up second at .366.

Red Schoendienst, a Cardinal teammate, is moving up with Musial. The second baseman bounced up 20 points to move from ninth to third at .350.

Roy Campanella, the Brooklyn catcher benched for weak hitting in early spring, has caught on fire. Roy moved from tenth to fourth on a 16-point advance to .343.

Richie Ashburn of the 1950 champion Phillies is batting fifth at .341. Bob Elliott of Boston, an early season challenger, has slid down to .339, and sixth place, just a step ahead of Pittsburgh's Ralph Kiner at .337. Kiner, once more socking those homers with regularity, wasn't among the top 10 in average a week ago.

Dick Sisler of the Phils is eighth at .326, Frank Baumholtz of Chicago next at .325. Al Dark of New York and Pee Wee Reese of Brooklyn are tied for tenth at .322. Reese, in a worse slump than Robinson, had only two hits all week, losing 48 points.

New Classes Local Drivers To Add Color

More Than 100 Aces Are Invited

Invitations were mailed on Monday to more than 100 prospective entries for the annual Kingston Powerboat Association's Regatta on the Rondout on Sunday, July 8, it was announced today.

Vernon Radel, public relations director of the KPBA said the mailing invitations was delayed pending permission by the Coast Guard to stage the annual event.

Radel pointed out that a new rule set up by the Coast Guard in September, 1950, stipulated that all regattas and marine parades of all types had to be certified by the district Coast Guard.

Permission to stage the KPBA regatta was received here on Saturday from Capt. W. C. Capron, Assistant Chief of Operations.

The invitations will be sent to outboard drivers in the seven northeastern states and return entries are expected by the end of the week.

The schedule of events has been changed this year to include one extra event, along with a new class. The schedule will include:

Class M hydroplanes, two heats.
Class A hydroplanes, one heat.
Class B hydroplanes, two heats.
Free-for-all hydroplanes, one heat.
C Service Runabouts, one heat.
C Racing Runabouts, one heat.
Class D utilities, two heats.

Radel said that two Class D utilities were entered illegally in last year's runabout division and, although they were disqualified, they made quite a showing. This class is in the 25-horsepower division and should attract the largest number of entries for any class.

Several Kingston and Poughkeepsie pilots are expected to compete in that division.

Mulloy Advances In English Play

Beckenham, Eng., June 12 (AP)—Top seeded Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., faces British veteran George Godsell in the second round of the Kent lawn tennis tournament today.

In Godsell, the United States veteran will be meeting a player of the old school who relies entirely upon placements, cut shots and delicate lobs instead of power.

Mulloy opened his bid for the title yesterday with a 6-4, 7-5 conquest of Derek Leyland of England. The match was not as close as the score indicated as Mulloy scored almost at will.

Wiltwyck Motors Wins Over Jones Dairy, 5 to 2

Kite's Three-Run Homer in Second Is The Big Blow

McClelland Gets Edge Over Fisher

Remember the good old City League days when the warcry was:

"Break Up the Joneses."

Nobody ever quite accomplished the trick.

But old age and other factors are doing a pretty good job of it at the moment.

The once powerful Dairymen, who won more league titles and individual crowns than any club in the twi history and Tommy Fisher, greatest pitcher in City League history, went down to their third straight setback in yesterday's clash with Wiltwyck Motors.

Don McClelland, a fastballing right hander, shackled the Dairymen with three hits and struck out six as the Motormen scored a 5 to 2 decision, their third win in four outings.

McClelland was in trouble only in the second frame when Joneses counted twice on Charlie Neff's single behind Tommy Maines' sliced double, a sacrifice, Charlie Francello's walk and stolen base.

Kite Hits Homer

Mickey Kite's blast over the right centerfield fence with two aboard accounted for three of Wiltwyck's four runs in the second inning against Fisher.

Trapani singled and went to third when Francello threw wild past second on Lefty Passante's grounder—a routine DP play. Kite picked this spot to loft one over the barrier. Joe Minado's long fly after another Jones bobble and sacrifice set up the fourth run of the inning. Errors also figured in Wiltwyck's final marker in the fifth.

Messinger's Memos:

The eight men left stranded by Jones Dairy were the eight walks doled out by McClelland. The crowd was about 200. Three of the five Wiltwyck tallies were unearned. The outfielders made only three putouts and both first basemen had a busy time, handling 23 putouts. The three outfield putouts must be a league record. Fisher deserved a better fate, statistically at least, outpitching McClelland of strikeout fame (six in a row), but losing because of errors on routine plays. Three of the five Wiltwyck hits were of the "glove" variety; one off Fisher's glove and two that Francello just managed to reach but couldn't hold. Bobby Rathbun, who pounded a couple of homers in his City League debut, went hitless in three trips. Jones Dairy over a period of two years has lost its tremendous power, once the scourge of opposing pitchers. Could it be old age creeping up? Blame it on the jackrabbit in Lou Kantrowitz's K-10 ball or the short fences, but the fans still get a jolt from those four masters.

Subway vs. Chez Emile at lower Hasbrouck.
Barclay vs. Jesse's at upper Hasbrouck.
Sickler's vs. Hoppey's at Block.
Beicherts vs. Legion at Forsyth.
Duke's vs. Central Lunch at Hutton.

Sickler's Delivery forced the undefeated Beichert's into two extra innings before yielding a ninth-inning tally that enabled the Studebakers to notch a 4 to 3 victory in the City Softball League feature on Monday.

The triumph was the seventh straight for the winners, who clung to a one game edge over the American Legion.

The Legion upended Subway Grill, 7 to 3, for its sixth win in seven starts. Duke's shaded Hoppey's, 4 to 3 in the other game reported.

Jesse's Tavern won over Central Lunch and Chez Emile defeated Barclay's, but scores were not available.

Home runs by Joe Fautz of Beichert's and Molly Leonard of Sickler's featured a tight pitching duel between John Kozlowski and Joe Enright. Kozlowski was in trouble only in the sixth when Sickler's scored three times to take a momentary 3-2 edge. The Beichert's tied the count in their half and pushed over the winning marker in the bottom of the ninth. Bill Smith accounted for three of the ten Beichert safeties off Enright. The losers collected nine.

Magley Stops Subways

While George Magley was throttling the Subway Grill power, the American Legion sluggers clipped Tom Spada early and often to run up a 5-1 lead in the first two innings and coast the rest of the way. Both teams collected eight hits.

Cliff Davis of the Legion played spectacular ball at third base, coming up with three great plays and had two hits to continue his terrific hitting.

"Putzie" Brown led Subways with "3 for 3" and Angelo Corrado and Mike Milano pounded two hits apiece for the Legion, one of Milano's hits going for two bases. Tom Spada hit a pair of doubles for the losers.

Duke's scored single markers in the first extra inning to nose out Hoppey's, 4 to 3, after tying the score in the bottom of the seventh. Wilson and Carl Perry had been locked in a scoreless duel since the second inning.

Morrison's fumble on Ashdown's hard hit grounder after Joe Perry's triple accounted for the winning run. Wilson, the losing pitcher, poled two doubles. Tom Kearney, Don McCollam and J. Ostrander hit doubles, while Joe Perry had the lone triple of the contest.

Hut Rally Nips The Barn, 9 to 8

The Hut overcame a 7-3 deficit in the late innings, scoring twice in the ninth, to shade the Barn, 9 to 8, in a softball game, Sunday at the Hercules diamond.

The Eddyville nine staged its winning rally with one away in the ninth. Bud McCardle's single and Harry Letus' triple tied the count at 7-7.

Barn strategy dictated intentional passes to Form Coughlin and Johnny Letus Jr., to load the bases, but the tactics backfired when Johnny Guziak stroked a long fly to left scoring Harry Letus with the winning run.

Johnny Letus Jr., the winning pitcher, permitted 10 hits and the winners collected 14 off Jess Williams. Letus pitched brilliantly after being assaulted for six runs in the third inning.

Louis Choice Over Savold

New York, June 12 (AP)—"I'll knock out Lee Savold inside six rounds."—Joe Louis.

"I'll knock out Joe Louis in five rounds."—Lee Savold.

Who's right? Or did you say, who cares?

Consensus of the deep thinkers around Weill's Wigwam (once Jacobs Beach) is that somebody had better knock out somebody—quick tomorrow night. The possibility of 37-year-old Joe and 35-year-old Lee pawing through 15 rounds uncorks sad visions. The pick here is Louis in five.

There has been little hullabaloo about this "battle of the aged" at the Polo Grounds Ticket sale has been spotty for an outdoor extravaganza.

A sign of the times is the announcement that the weigh-in will be held downtown at the New York State Athletic Commission office—just like any other show. Louis always had a flood-lighted four-star unveiling in the Garden lobby.

15,000 Expected

International Boxing Club officials will be happy to settle for 15,000 fans and $100,000, though hoping to get lucky with a break in the weather. They hope for an upswing in sales when it sinks home to the public that there will be no home television or radio.

The no-radio, no-TV gimmick was credited with putting over the Sandy Saddler-Willie Pep show and the Jake LaMotta-Laurent Dauthuille bout last summer.

Actually there will be television of a sort but none in your home. The fight will be piped on a special closed circuit to selected theatres in five cities—Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, Albany and Washington. It's the first sports test of a new idea—pay-as-you-go TV.

Beckenham, Eng.—Three American women — Barbara Scofield, Betty Rosenquest and Althea Gibson—won their opening round matches in the Kent lawn tennis tournament.

Wiltwyck Motors Wins Over Jones Dairy, 5 to 2

Kite's Three-Run Homer in Second Is The Big Blow

McClelland Gets Edge Over Fisher

Remember the good old City League days when the warcry was:

"Break Up the Joneses."

Nobody ever quite accomplished the trick.

But old age and other factors are doing a pretty good job of it at the moment.

The once powerful Dairymen, who won more league titles and individual crowns than any club in the twi history and Tommy Fisher, greatest pitcher in City League history, went down to their third straight setback in yesterday's clash with Wiltwyck Motors.

Don McClelland, a fastballing right hander, shackled the Dairymen with three hits and struck out six as the Motormen scored a 5 to 2 decision, their third win in four outings.

McClelland was in trouble only in the second frame when Joneses counted twice on Charlie Neff's single behind Tommy Maines' sliced double, a sacrifice, Charlie Francello's walk and stolen base.

Kite Hits Homer

Mickey Kite's blast over the right centerfield fence with two aboard accounted for three of Wiltwyck's four runs in the second inning against Fisher.

Trapani singled and went to third when Francello threw wild past second on Lefty Passante's grounder—a routine DP play. Kite picked this spot to loft one over the barrier. Joe Minado's long fly after another Jones bobble and sacrifice set up the fourth run of the inning. Errors also figured in Wiltwyck's final marker in the fifth.

Messinger's Memos:

The eight men left stranded by Jones Dairy were the eight walks doled out by McClelland. The crowd was about 200. Three of the five Wiltwyck tallies were unearned. The outfielders made only three putouts and both first basemen had a busy time, handling 23 putouts. The three outfield putouts must be a league record. Fisher deserved a better fate, statistically at least, outpitching McClelland of strikeout fame (six in a row), but losing because of errors on routine plays. Three of the five Wiltwyck hits were of the "glove" variety; one off Fisher's glove and two that Francello just managed to reach but couldn't hold. Bobby Rathbun, who pounded a couple of homers in his City League debut, went hitless in three trips. Jones Dairy over a period of two years has lost its tremendous power, once the scourge of opposing pitchers. Could it be old age creeping up? Blame it on the jackrabbit in Lou Kantrowitz's K-10 ball or the short fences, but the fans still get a jolt from those four masters.

Subway vs. Chez Emile at lower Hasbrouck.
Barclay vs. Jesse's at upper Hasbrouck.
Sickler's vs. Hoppey's at Block.
Beicherts vs. Legion at Forsyth.
Duke's vs. Central Lunch at Hutton.

Sickler's Delivery forced the undefeated Beichert's into two extra innings before yielding a ninth-inning tally that enabled the Studebakers to notch a 4 to 3 victory in the City Softball League feature on Monday.

The triumph was the seventh straight for the winners, who clung to a one game edge over the American Legion.

The Legion upended Subway Grill, 7 to 3, for its sixth win in seven starts. Duke's shaded Hoppey's, 4 to 3 in the other game reported.

Jesse's Tavern won over Central Lunch and Chez Emile defeated Barclay's, but scores were not available.

Home runs by Joe Fautz of Beichert's and Molly Leonard of Sickler's featured a tight pitching duel between John Kozlowski and Joe Enright. Kozlowski was in trouble only in the sixth when Sickler's scored three times to take a momentary 3-2 edge. The Beichert's tied the count in their half and pushed over the winning marker in the bottom of the ninth. Bill Smith accounted for three of the ten Beichert safeties off Enright. The losers collected nine.

Magley Stops Subways

While George Magley was throttling the Subway Grill power, the American Legion sluggers clipped Tom Spada early and often to run up a 5-1 lead in the first two innings and coast the rest of the way. Both teams collected eight hits.

Cliff Davis of the Legion played spectacular ball at third base, coming up with three great plays and had two hits to continue his terrific hitting.

"Putzie" Brown led Subways with "3 for 3" and Angelo Corrado and Mike Milano pounded two hits apiece for the Legion, one of Milano's hits going for two bases. Tom Spada hit a pair of doubles for the losers.

Duke's scored single markers in the first extra inning to nose out Hoppey's, 4 to 3, after tying the score in the bottom of the seventh. Wilson and Carl Perry had been locked in a scoreless duel since the second inning.

Morrison's fumble on Ashdown's hard hit grounder after Joe Perry's triple accounted for the winning run. Wilson, the losing pitcher, poled two doubles. Tom Kearney, Don McCollam and J. Ostrander hit doubles, while Joe Perry had the lone triple of the contest.

Upland Takes Westbury Feature

Westbury, N. Y., June 12 (AP)—Upland, speedy pacer owned by Francis Killmon, heads the field in the featured $2,500 Minnesota Purse of the Grand Circuit meeting at Roosevelt Raceway tonight.

Upland will be driven by veteran Ben Turlington. He'll meet such fast stepping sidewheelers as Gallonite. Appropo, Rena Grattan, Private George and Dynamic Hal.

Louis Choice Over Savold

New York, June 12 (AP)—"I'll knock out Lee Savold inside six rounds."—Joe Louis.

"I'll knock out Joe Louis in five rounds."—Lee Savold.

Who's right? Or did you say, who cares?

Consensus of the deep thinkers around Weill's Wigwam (once Jacobs Beach) is that somebody had better knock out somebody—quick tomorrow night. The possibility of 37-year-old Joe and 35-year-old Lee pawing through 15 rounds uncorks sad visions. The pick here is Louis in five.

There has been little hullabaloo about this "battle of the aged" at the Polo Grounds Ticket sale has been spotty for an outdoor extravaganza.

A sign of the times is the announcement that the weigh-in will be held downtown at the New York State Athletic Commission office—just like any other show. Louis always had a flood-lighted four-star unveiling in the Garden lobby.

15,000 Expected

International Boxing Club officials will be happy to settle for 15,000 fans and $100,000, though hoping to get lucky with a break in the weather. They hope for an upswing in sales when it sinks home to the public that there will be no home television or radio.

The no-radio, no-TV gimmick was credited with putting over the Sandy Saddler-Willie Pep show and the Jake LaMotta-Laurent Dauthuille bout last summer.

Actually there will be television of a sort but none in your home. The fight will be piped on a special closed circuit to selected theatres in five cities—Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, Albany and Washington. It's the first sports test of a new idea—pay-as-you-go TV.

Beckenham, Eng.—Three American women — Barbara Scofield, Betty Rosenquest and Althea Gibson—won their opening round matches in the Kent lawn tennis tournament.

We will be open 7 days a week 7 A. M. to 12 P. M.

Old Capital Motors handed the Lanesville AC their first defeat of the season, 9 to 4 Sunday at Lanesville.

Berardi, first name not reported, checked the home club with seven hits and struck out eight. The winners collected eight hits off Bud Smith, who had eight strikeout victims.

Felipe and Ralph Lyons had two hits apiece for the winners. Clancy pounded three singles for Lanesville.

Lanesville plays the Poughkeepsie Pioneers next Sunday.

Hut Rally Nips The Barn, 9 to 8

The Hut overcame a 7-3 deficit in the late innings, scoring twice in the ninth, to shade the Barn, 9 to 8, in a softball game, Sunday at the Hercules diamond.

The Eddyville nine staged its winning rally with one away in the ninth. Bud McCardle's single and Harry Letus' triple tied the count at 7-7.

Barn strategy dictated intentional passes to Form Coughlin and Johnny Letus Jr., to load the bases, but the tactics backfired when Johnny Guziak stroked a long fly to left scoring Harry Letus with the winning run.

Johnny Letus Jr., the winning pitcher, permitted 10 hits and the winners collected 14 off Jess Williams. Letus pitched brilliantly after being assaulted for six runs in the third inning.

REDUCING NUMBER OF INVITATIONS

A bride-to-be asks to have a rule clarified: "Arguing has become heated about the number of wedding invitations actually necessary. Father thinks that three invitations sent to the same family is ridiculous when one would suffice if the envelope were addressed to 'and family.' Mother and I are of the opinion that this designation is not good form. Father's compromise is to write 'and Family' on the second envelope, but here again Mother and I think this is wrong."

Although 'and Family' does not happen to be approved by the fastidious, there is nothing rude or actually wrong about it. The main reason for the objection to 'and Family' is that in a family of size—especially if there are young children—no one can know definitely how many are invited. It is best, therefore, to list the individual names of those invited beneath the Mr. and Mrs..... on the inside envelope.

"Yes, Ma'am"

Dear Mrs. Post: What about teaching the youngster to say "Yes, ma'am" to older women friends of mine? What does a little girl say to an older man? To insist that a little child say, "Yes, Mrs. Long Name" is fruitless; it usually ends in her saying "Yes" and nothing else.

Answer: I am sorry, this is really one of the biggest stumbling blocks in "social behavior." "Yes, ma'am" (except in the South or to royalty) has gone out of fashion. On the other hand, to oblige a child to answer, "Yes, Mrs. Long Name," is impossible. The only rule is to add a word after "Yes" or "No." For example, "Yes, please," "No, thank you," "Yes, I did," etc. Answering a man "yes, sir" is (as it has always been) correct.

Seating In Church

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the correct way for a man and woman to walk up a church aisle when (1) No ushers and (2) when seated by an usher? This means at an ordinary Sunday service.

Answer: (1) They walk together. (2) They walk together following the usher.

What linen should a girl have in her hope chest? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-5, "The Bride's Trousseau," includes a list of essential linens and personal clothes. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

REDUCING NUMBER OF INVITATIONS

A bride-to-be asks to have a rule clarified: "Arguing has become heated about the number of wedding invitations actually necessary. Father thinks that three invitations sent to the same family is ridiculous when one would suffice if the envelope were addressed to 'and family.' Mother and I are of the opinion that this designation is not good form. Father's compromise is to write 'and Family' on the second envelope, but here again Mother and I think this is wrong."

Although 'and Family' does not happen to be approved by the fastidious, there is nothing rude or actually wrong about it. The main reason for the objection to 'and Family' is that in a family of size—especially if there are young children—no one can know definitely how many are invited. It is best, therefore, to list the individual names of those invited beneath the Mr. and Mrs..... on the inside envelope.

"Yes, Ma'am"

Dear Mrs. Post: What about teaching the youngster to say "Yes, ma'am" to older women friends of mine? What does a little girl say to an older man? To insist that a little child say, "Yes, Mrs. Long Name" is fruitless; it usually ends in her saying "Yes" and nothing else.

Answer: I am sorry, this is really one of the biggest stumbling blocks in "social behavior." "Yes, ma'am" (except in the South or to royalty) has gone out of fashion. On the other hand, to oblige a child to answer, "Yes, Mrs. Long Name," is impossible. The only rule is to add a word after "Yes" or "No." For example, "Yes, please," "No, thank you," "Yes, I did," etc. Answering a man "yes, sir" is (as it has always been) correct.

Seating In Church

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the correct way for a man and woman to walk up a church aisle when (1) No ushers and (2) when seated by an usher? This means at an ordinary Sunday service.

Answer: (1) They walk together. (2) They walk together following the usher.

What linen should a girl have in her hope chest? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-5, "The Bride's Trousseau," includes a list of essential linens and personal clothes. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Shandaken Sawmill Burns, Loss Estimated $200,000

Briton Arrives

Sir Percy Sillitoe, head of Britain's counter-espionage organization, arrives in Washington June 11 for talks with FBI officials. No official reason has been given for his trip. Meanwhile, the manhunt for two missing British diplomats continues in Europe. (AP Wirephoto)

The former Hiram Whitney chair factory at Shandaken, owned by Eugene B. Gormley of Phoenicia and occupied by the Allan Waterous sawmill, was destroyed by fire last night with a loss which has been estimated at over $200,000.

In addition to the mill and equipment a large quantity of seasoned lumber stored outside was destroyed.

The fire was discovered about 10:45 o'clock by G. I. Marinor of Allaben who was returning home from a concert given by the Catskill Glee Club at the Shandaken Methodist Church. Mr. Marinor observed the fire in the lower portion of the building near the dry kiln where a large quantity of lumber was stored in a shed. The notified Corporal Ray Dunn who was on traffic duty, and a call was sent in to the Phoenicia, Pine Hill and Oliverea fire departments.

Cause of the fire has not been ascertained and an investigation was under way today by Sergeant A. A. Reilly and Corporal Dunn of the state police.

Not Enough Water

Water from a small stream at the rear of the factory was used but the limited supply proved ineffective in quenching the flames which raced through the dry lumber and the factory building.

It was reported that 190,000 feet of grade one hard lumber in the mill and stored in piles under sheds and outside was destroyed.

Lester Shultis, forman, attempted to get equipment from the burning building but most of the planers and other equipment was destroyed. By using a tractor one of the large motors used for power was hauled from the plant but two other large power motors were destroyed.

Oil Spurs Flames

Fuel oil tanks, one of them with a capacity of 5,000 gallons and several smaller oil and gas tanks, exploded during the fire adding fuel to the flames.

Members of the newly formed Wittenberg fire department had just left a meeting when notice of the fire was received and they went to the scene to give assistance although they had no equipment to send.

Several members of the glee club which had put on the concert at Shandaken, assisted in getting trucks and a tractor parked at the rear of the factory to safety.

The Phoenicia fire department remained at the scene today wetting down the ruins.

The Waterous mill was engaged in sawing hard wood for lumber and the company also manufactured table tops. About 30 men were employed at the plant.

Much of the lumber destroyed was oak, maple and birch. This lumber was stacked in piles in sheds and also outside the buildings and the dry kiln was filled with lumber ready to be taken out.

Mutual Aid in Kingston was notified of the fire and the Woodstock fire department was sent to cover for Phoenicia when that department went to the fire. No equipment was dispatched from Kingston to the scene.

Was Old Chair Factory

The factory was built partly of stone, with portions of it frame. The plant was operated for many years by the late Hiram Whitney as a chair factory. In 1900 the original plant was destroyed by fire and immediately rebuilt. At that time a portion of the factory was rebuilt of stone. In 1906 the factory was sold to the Fox Company of New York, manufacturers of chairs, and that company operated the plant for several years, later becoming involved in financial difficulties and the plant was idle for a period of years. About seven or eight years ago Mr. Gormley bought the property at a tax sale and it remained vacant until about a year and a half ago when Allan Waterous of Woodstock opened a sawmill on the premises.

At one time during the height of the fire the residence of Martin Tompkins adjoining the factory was threatened and it was necessary to keep the house wet down.

"As individuals, we yearn for peace, stability, security," Dr. Spencer said. "But nature seems to imply that all that may not be good for the race. The conditions that are perfect for one individual are not perfect for the race.

"Individuals are nature's most expendable commodity. Nature cares more about the race than the individual.

"We must expect change. It is the primary law of the universe. Nothing stays the same. Until a man is able to realize that your death and mine are just as essential for progress as is his birth, he is not mentally mature.

Man has qualities beyond any other animal's for survival, for meeting change and adapting, he said. Because of that, Dr. Spencer said, he doesn't think an atomic war will wipe out the human race.

prepared statement that "this area is not involved in any dispute at all."

Confirmation for that statement came this morning from a manager whose plant is contracted with the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. Max Lustberg, manager of King's Dresses, 519 Broadway, said his plant has not been affected and that he had not heard of the work stoppage in the metropolitan area.

Five other local women's wear manufacturing companies contacted reported work was going on as usual. Most of the plants were non-union.

Wedemeyer said he had heard "rumors" but gave McMahon no names. He suggested the senator might go to the U. S. Treasury Department for information.

Developed Account

Senator Knowland (R.-Calif.) then developed Wedemeyer's account of his efforts to safeguard Manchuria at the end of World War Two.

Knowland led into the matter by questioning Wedemeyer about the 1945 Yalta agreement under which Russia received concessions in Manchuria as an inducement to enter the war against Japan.

He had asked if Manchuria were not "pretty much the key to China," and Wedemeyer had replied that it often has been referred to as "the Ruhr of the Far East."

(The Ruhr is the steel-coal area of western Germany and has been called the heart of industrial Europe.)

Goes to Prison

Deputy Sheriffs Joseph Gentile and Carl Cline today took William H. Robinson to Clinton State Prison where Robinson will serve a term of from 1½ to 3 years for stealing a car.

New York State was named by Charles the Second of England, for his brother, the Duke of York, in 1664.

Shandaken Sawmill Burns, Loss Estimated $200,000

Briton Arrives

Sir Percy Sillitoe, head of Britain's counter-espionage organization, arrives in Washington June 11 for talks with FBI officials. No official reason has been given for his trip. Meanwhile, the manhunt for two missing British diplomats continues in Europe. (AP Wirephoto)

The former Hiram Whitney chair factory at Shandaken, owned by Eugene B. Gormley of Phoenicia and occupied by the Allan Waterous sawmill, was destroyed by fire last night with a loss which has been estimated at over $200,000.

In addition to the mill and equipment a large quantity of seasoned lumber stored outside was destroyed.

The fire was discovered about 10:45 o'clock by G. I. Marinor of Allaben who was returning home from a concert given by the Catskill Glee Club at the Shandaken Methodist Church. Mr. Marinor observed the fire in the lower portion of the building near the dry kiln where a large quantity of lumber was stored in a shed. The notified Corporal Ray Dunn who was on traffic duty, and a call was sent in to the Phoenicia, Pine Hill and Oliverea fire departments.

Cause of the fire has not been ascertained and an investigation was under way today by Sergeant A. A. Reilly and Corporal Dunn of the state police.

Not Enough Water

Water from a small stream at the rear of the factory was used but the limited supply proved ineffective in quenching the flames which raced through the dry lumber and the factory building.

It was reported that 190,000 feet of grade one hard lumber in the mill and stored in piles under sheds and outside was destroyed.

Lester Shultis, forman, attempted to get equipment from the burning building but most of the planers and other equipment was destroyed. By using a tractor one of the large motors used for power was hauled from the plant but two other large power motors were destroyed.

Oil Spurs Flames

Fuel oil tanks, one of them with a capacity of 5,000 gallons and several smaller oil and gas tanks, exploded during the fire adding fuel to the flames.

Members of the newly formed Wittenberg fire department had just left a meeting when notice of the fire was received and they went to the scene to give assistance although they had no equipment to send.

Several members of the glee club which had put on the concert at Shandaken, assisted in getting trucks and a tractor parked at the rear of the factory to safety.

The Phoenicia fire department remained at the scene today wetting down the ruins.

The Waterous mill was engaged in sawing hard wood for lumber and the company also manufactured table tops. About 30 men were employed at the plant.

Much of the lumber destroyed was oak, maple and birch. This lumber was stacked in piles in sheds and also outside the buildings and the dry kiln was filled with lumber ready to be taken out.

Mutual Aid in Kingston was notified of the fire and the Woodstock fire department was sent to cover for Phoenicia when that department went to the fire. No equipment was dispatched from Kingston to the scene.

Was Old Chair Factory

The factory was built partly of stone, with portions of it frame. The plant was operated for many years by the late Hiram Whitney as a chair factory. In 1900 the original plant was destroyed by fire and immediately rebuilt. At that time a portion of the factory was rebuilt of stone. In 1906 the factory was sold to the Fox Company of New York, manufacturers of chairs, and that company operated the plant for several years, later becoming involved in financial difficulties and the plant was idle for a period of years. About seven or eight years ago Mr. Gormley bought the property at a tax sale and it remained vacant until about a year and a half ago when Allan Waterous of Woodstock opened a sawmill on the premises.

At one time during the height of the fire the residence of Martin Tompkins adjoining the factory was threatened and it was necessary to keep the house wet down.

"As individuals, we yearn for peace, stability, security," Dr. Spencer said. "But nature seems to imply that all that may not be good for the race. The conditions that are perfect for one individual are not perfect for the race.

"Individuals are nature's most expendable commodity. Nature cares more about the race than the individual.

"We must expect change. It is the primary law of the universe. Nothing stays the same. Until a man is able to realize that your death and mine are just as essential for progress as is his birth, he is not mentally mature.

Man has qualities beyond any other animal's for survival, for meeting change and adapting, he said. Because of that, Dr. Spencer said, he doesn't think an atomic war will wipe out the human race.

prepared statement that "this area is not involved in any dispute at all."

Confirmation for that statement came this morning from a manager whose plant is contracted with the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. Max Lustberg, manager of King's Dresses, 519 Broadway, said his plant has not been affected and that he had not heard of the work stoppage in the metropolitan area.

Five other local women's wear manufacturing companies contacted reported work was going on as usual. Most of the plants were non-union.
